3 County Contests On Ballots

Interest In Campaign Lags

Richland county's primary campaign, which has been so quiet that the average voter wonders who's running, is expected to warm up this week as the May 4 primary approaches.

Richland voters will decide only three county contests—Democratic and Republican contests for sheriff and the GOP race for county commissioner.

Vying with the local contests for interest is the race between Ray T. Miller and Frank J. Lausche for the Democratic nomination for governor and the battle between Senator Robert A. Taft and Harold Stassen for presidential delegates.

Although Stassen has no delegate candidate from the 17th congressional district, he is represented on the ballot by a delegate-at-large, Carrington T. Marshall. Voters will find 10 delegates' names on the ballot with nine to elect. Nine of the 10 are Taft representatives.

One of the most spirited contests is between Harold Marvin, E. P. Long and Thomas J. Campbell for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. Marvin is a deputy sheriff under Sheriff Frank E. Robinson while Long is a former sheriff.

14 ASK NOMINATION

The Republicans have a four-way race for sheriff between C. M. Chatlain, Charles J. Pittinger, James T. Little, and Leonard J. Parrella.

Battling for the two GOP nominations for county commissioner are John W. Selby, incumbent commissioner; John C. Friday, a former commissioner, and Charles H. Hebel, former Mansfield street superintendent.

While neither political organization in Richland county has taken an official stand on the primary candidates, most Democrat organization leaders are openly backing Miller over Lausche for governor and the Republicans favor Taft over Stassen for president.

In the Democratic contest for governor with Lausche and Miller are Joseph Torok jr., and Robert S. Cox.

The Republicans have three candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, seeking re-election, Albert Edward Payne, Springfield manufacturer who has been in other races for governor, and William L. White.

Robert B. Putnam and W. Thurman Todd seek the Republican nomination for judge of the district court of appeals.

Two Democrats, T. L. Thomas and Stephen M. Young, want the nomination for congressman-at-large.

Taft Flays GOP Rival

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Sen. Robert A. Taft last night accused Harold E. Stassen of a political about-face on the issue of communism, as the two headed into the home stretch of their hectic Ohio primary race.

In a radio address, the Ohio senator challenged Stassen's statement earlier Saturday that the Minnesotan's Republicanism closely resembled the GOP outlook in Congress, and assailed the stand taken by Stassen on communists.

"Mr. Stassen originally adopted very much the same view toward communism that President Roosevelt held," said Taft. "He (Stassen) visited Moscow after the war and had a long and friendly conference with Mr. Stalin . . ."

"He did not seem to realize," the Ohioan continued, "the basic and fundamental difference between communism as a totalitarian dictatorship and the possibility of appeasing the U. S. S. R.

"Today, he (Stassen) suggested that the best method of combatting communism was to adopt social welfare measures in this country, which Mr. Roosevelt was always suggesting. I am all for the social welfare measures, but we have to adopt a good deal more active methods to combat communism in the world today.

"Now Mr. Stassen has swung over to demand the outlawing of the communistic party. Frankly, I don't know what that means, nor does anyone else. Under our constitution a man can be a communist if he desires."

McCORD RUNS AGAIN

NASHVILLE —(AP)— Gov. Jim McCord announced last night he will run for a third term as governor of Tennessee.

Anybody Lost An Alligator? Please Claim

Have you lost your alligator?

John Foulkes was outside his home at 154 Blymyer avenue yesterday afternoon when he saw a lively something or other thrashing about in the street.

He rushed to investigate, and after rubbing his eyes and pinching himself to make sure he was awake, found a baby alligator on his hands.

Grabbing the little tyke by the tail he carried him into the garage where he put him in a tub.

"I'm not looking forward to the prospect of keeping the animal when it grows up, so I hope the owner will call and claim him," he said.

Poll Shows District Cool To Aid Plan

M'Gregor Tallies Area Sentiment

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. McGregor (R.-Ohio) said Saturday a poll he has made in his district shows 80 per cent of those answering oppose a long term European peace program.

Sixteen hundred of the 2,800 questionnaires he sent to residents were returned. The poll has been under way since February.

McGregor said he believes the replies represent the opinions of "the majority of the people" in the district. It includes Ashland, Knox, Coshocton, Delaware, Licking and Richland counties in central Ohio.

Housewives, the tabulation showed, were most opposed to the European aid program. Only 17 per cent favored it. However, 65 per cent of educators and 45 per cent of attorneys and newspaper and radio people said they were for such a program.

Other results of the poll showed 95 per cent against repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law; 95 per cent against legislation putting "the medical and dental profession and operation of our hospitals" under federal control; 97 per cent against "immediate" return to federal price controls; 87 per cent against immediate admission into this country of European displaced persons.

Sixty-nine per cent were in favor of continuation of rent controls and 44 per cent favored federal financial aid to schools.

A total of 98 per cent opposed granting controls over production or wages to President Truman.

Mercury Up Here; Other Areas Shiver

Mansfielders sweltered in mid-July heat yesterday as the mercury reached the high point of the year when it touched 80 degrees at 3:30 p. m.

And despite a short, but heavy shower that cooled the area and pushed the mercury into the low 60's in less than two hours, the weatherman predicted more heat for today.

He said it would be cloudy in the morning, and warmer in the afternoon with scattered afternoon showers and thunderstorms.

While the city rolled up its shirt sleeves during the preview of summer, the people of Colorado were chilled by wintry blasts.

Denverites who basked in a warm sun on Friday awoke yesterday to find snow on the ground and the weatherman predicted more freezing temperatures for the Rocky mountain area.

Distress Call Termed Hoax

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP)— The coast guard reported Saturday that distress calls which asserted that the French steamship Saint Domingue was afire and sinking in the Caribbean sea "definitely were a hoax."

The 3,109-ton craft has been located safe in a French port, coast guard search and rescue headquarters stated.

Army aircraft and two navy destroyers searched the reported area of distress and found nothing.

He gave his name as George Willisschlegelsleenhousenbergerdorff.

CHANT OF AUCTIONEER ENCHANTS—The chant of the auctioneer echoed over the county fairgrounds yesterday at an "everything donated" sale to aid the Rural Life Center campaign. Auction Collects $3,000

Richland county rural folk spent approximately $3,000 at the fairgrounds yesterday and every cent of it went to further their $40,000 campaign to build a Rural Life Center on an 80-acre tract of land in Weller township.

They spent their money in small bits—nickels and dimes—and in sums exceeding $100.

In return, they enjoyed one of the most festive strictly rural days in Richland county history and carried home with them an assortment of articles ranging from peeping chicks to an antique heavily-carved "grandfather's bed" and a nearly-new disc.

From 8 a. m. to nearly 6 p. m., approximately 3,000 persons hustled about the fairground. They unloaded their donations early, then joined the crowds at concessions stands and at the rummage sale, and, munching popcorn, sandwiches and cakes, listened and offered bids as Auctioneer Neil Robinson pleaded "who'll make an offer?"

Happily, the crowd showed its elation as Robinson "knocked down" each donated article with the final chant, "Going—going—

Clay Defies Red Threats

Says Pact Grants Berlin Air Path

BERLIN—(AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay gave notice Saturday that the United States will continue to use the air corridor between Berlin and the western occupation zones.

The American commander expressed U. S. policy following reports the Russians plan to redistrict air travel of the western allies with new "safety" regulations.

He told a news conference:

"We will abide by the quadripartite (four power) agreements which set up the air corridor and we will continue use of the air corridor." He repeated this statement, as if for emphasis.

Clay reported the Russians have made no formal proposals to set up the restrictions. Such a program has been officially recommended to the Russian military governor by a Soviet commission.

He said four-power agreement prohibits formation flying or military mancuvers in the air corridors but, "when the time comes that you have to use fighter escort, I don't think you'll worry about that very much."

Clay said the Russians have made no move to hold talks they had proposed for clarifying their restrictions on land travel to Berlin. Asked if he thought a reasonable solution could be reached on this question, he replied:

"Reasonable people can sit across a table and develop a reasonable solution, but I can't see much prospect on this."

Dead Child Still Obeys

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Four-year-old Lucille Wadyko asked her mother for a nickel Saturday so she could buy some candy at the corner grocery store.

She promised not to eat the candy until she returned, so she could share it with her 16-month-old brother.

In a few minutes, members of the family saw a crowd gathered where workmen were cutting the heavy limb of a tree. The limb had crashed to the sidewalk. Lucille was crushed to death underneath the limb—her chubby hands still holding the unopened bag of candy.

Two City Residents Involved

Mansfielders Escape Injury

A 19-year-old Cincinnati youth died last night in General hospital from injuries received near here in a two-car collision in which two Lorain men were injured and a Mansfield couple escaped unscathed.

The youth, Denzil Holt, succumbed to severe shock suffered in an accident on Route 42, three miles south of Mansfield, about 6:30 p. m.

Injured in the crash were Ted Pemberton, 35, a Lorain steel worker, driver of the car in which Holt was riding, and James Hibbard, 21, also of Lorain. Their injuries were minor, state patrolman said.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Roseberry, 120 North Adams street, Mansfield, occupants of the second car involved in the accident, were not injured.

Pemberton was arrested by state patrolmen and charged with improper passing at an intersection. He will appear in court tomorrow.

A fourth man in the Pemberton vehicle, Laverne Wilson, 19, of Cincinnati, also escaped without injury.

STOPPED TO TURN

The accident occurred at the intersection of Route 42 and Hanley road. Roseberry, who was driving a car belonging to James O. Hatfield of 850 Geddes avenue, was driving south and had stopped to make a left turn.

Patrolmen said Pemberton attempted to pass Roseberry on the left at a speed of approximately 35 miles an hour. Pemberton's car hit Roseberry and Holt was thrown clear into a ditch at the side of the road, patrolmen said.

The Pemberton car jumped a culvert and left the highway. Neither car was badly damaged, patrolmen said. Pemberton told officers that he was knocked unconscious.

Holt's death brings the total traffic fatalities in Richland county in 1948 to four. The last fatal accident occurred on March 8, when 11-month-old Terry Lee Ryan, son of Mrs. Nettie Ryan, 479 Hammond avenue, was killed in a two-car collision, 10 miles northwest of the city.

In a second traffic accident last night which took place near Lexington on Route 42, Mrs. Florence Oliver, 27, of Delaware had her left arm badly injured and received bruises on the head and right side. She was treated at General hospital and released.

The accident resulted when the driver of the car in which Mrs. Oliver was riding, driven by Leonard Dailey, 19, Delaware, pulled out from the right hand side of the road into the left lane of traffic and in front of a car driven by Gene Bickley, Cleveland, according to sheriff's deputies.

Clocks Turn Ahead Today

NEW YORK —(AP)— Daylight saving comes to some 60,000,000 persons in the nation today.

Until Sept. 26, these millions, mostly in the cities and in the heavily populated northeast, will have an extra hour of daylight.

Californians and Nevadans will have "fast time" until next January, however, as a power conservation measure.

Daylight saving time is to be observed in all or most communities in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, California and Nevada.

Partial observance is planned in Tennessee, West Viorginia, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Virginia and possibly Florida. Residents of Miami, Fla., are scheduled to vote next month on whether they will switch.

Grocery Robbed For 22nd Time

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Grocer Aaron H. Pavsner figured he had a legitimate beef today and said it "is high time the police department did something about it."

Last night Pavsner's store on North Mount street was robbed for the twenty-second time in four years. He estimated his losses to date at $2,500.

Three resolutions lauding state and federal attempts to curb the spread of un-American activities were voted yesterday at the closing session of the state convention of the Ohio Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in Mansfield.

Condon FBI Report Held

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The commerce department formally refused Saturday to hand over to the House an FBI loyalty report on Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the Federal Bureau of Standards.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) thereupon declared: "The last word hasn't been spoken."

He said the House now can try legislation to get the desired information.

In a resolution adopted Thursday by a 300 to 29 vote, the House had demanded that the FBI report on Condon be sent it.

Roxas Given Final Honor

MANILA —(AP)— A sorrowing Filipino nation paid its final tribute today to Manuel A. Roxas "architect and builder" of the 21-month-old Philippines republic.

Tolling bells of hundreds of churches throughout the land at noon marked the moment when the body of Roxas in a bronze casket was lowered into a mausoleum at North Cemetery near another Filipino patriot, Manuel Quezon.

Under laden skies a vast throng heard the Most Rev. William Piani, apostolic delegate, speak the final benediction. Tthree volleys of musketry rang out. Then taps sounded.

President Elpidio Quirino, new chief executive of the young republic, said in his eulogy that "the unshakable friendship and the inseparable destiny of the Philippines and the United States" were symbolized by Roxas' death.

Decision Expected On Air Force Row

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A preliminary decision in the contest about the size and makeup of a powerful combat air force may be reached in the Senate this week.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) told a reporter Saturday that hearings opening Monday morning on a 70-air group money bill "should speed up a decision on this whole problem."

Cancer Tags Net $529.35

Members of the Sophomore Girls Blue Tri raised $529.35 yesterday —a tag day conducted as part of Mansfield's third annual cancer drive, Richard Wolford, campaign chairman, announced last night.

Carrying small coin boxes, the girls were on their street corner stations all day, getting the contributions of shoppers.

Mansfielders have been asked to raise $24,000 toward their own and the National Cancer Fund campaign.

The purpose of yesterday's effort was to supplement the cancer drive in view of the fact that there will be no house to house solicitation of funds.

Wolford stated that business places, however, are being visited now and will be contacted in the future by campaigners seeking contributions.

2 Ships Collide On Foggy River

ST. CLAIR, Mich. —(AP)— A Canadian tanker and a 10,000-ton freighter collided on the fog-shrouded St. Clair river, three miles south of here, late Saturday.

Both vessels were badly damaged, but none of the crew was hurt, state police reported. The ships rammed each other almost head on.

County Resident Discloses Story

Henry Wallace's Ancestors Lived In Mansfield

By BOB EDWARDS

Henry Wallace may never have slept here, but his father was born in Mansfield in the old Carpenter home on Wood street, once called "The Manse," and his grandmother was a Richland county girl.

So says Pitendreigh—"Pete" to almost everyone—G. Ross, former partner in the once famous Carpenter-Ross Richland county cattle farms and friend of the Wallaces. Ross now lives four miles south of Mansfield on State Route 39.

Pete was well acquainted with both the present Henry's father, Henry II, and his grandfather, Henry I.

Ross, then but recently arrived in the United States from Scotland, was an expert at "breaking cattle to handle" and getting them in proper trim for sales.

The Wallace Farmer, a farm paper published at Des Moines, Ia., was one of the leading publications in its field even then.

Because of his position in assisting many owners to prepare cattle for sale, the owners often listened to Ross's suggestion that they advertise their animals in the Wallace Farmer.

At that time the present Henry's father was managing editor of the paper and because of Ross's predilection for advertising in the "Farmer," they got to know one another quite well.

The presidential candidate's grandfather, Henry I, attended most of the important stock sales and, according to Ross, took an interest in this young Scot who was so capable at handling cattle.

Henry I was responsible for getting many a job for young Ross. Even during the slack spring season, Henry I usually arranged to have someone calling for Pete's services.

For several years Ross made trips to Scotland buying and importing Shorthorn and Angus cattle. Around 1903 the importing business slowed down and Pete took a job on the farm of E. S. Kelly, manufacturer of the Kelly-Springfield tire.

A short time later Kelly's father died and the Kelly cattle herd was sold. Ross and Reid Carpenter, prominent Mansfield banker,

Jews Extend Grip On Haifa

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Jewish militia fought Saturday to take possession of a buffer area to seal off their greatest prize, the port city of Haifa.

While thousands of weary Arabs streamed from the city which was captured by Jews in a spectacular battle Thursday, Haganah guns blazed out at Balad Esh Sheikh and nearby Tirah, two villages about five miles east of the big port. The Arab villages are on the road to Nazareth and Tiberias, a city on the Sea of Galilee from which the Arabs also have been driven by the Jews.

Talk About Shortages

Tough Paper Substitutes For Bed Linen In Finland

By EDWIN SHANKE

HELSINKI—(AP)—The things people need to live with are so scarce here that black marketing and shoplifting are major problems in the stores.

Textiles are especially scarce. Where possible, tough paper is used to substitute for bed sheets, carpets and upholstering.

Consider what happens when a department store obtains a meager supply of suits and shirts.

The quantity is so limited and demand so great that an advertisement would bring all of Helsinki to the spot, with perhaps a minor riot among women shoppers.

So store managers just put out the goods as available on a first-come first-served basis without fanfare. This method also is followed in an effort to combat black marketeers, store managers say.

"Even as it is, black marketeers sit in our soda fountain all day and wander regularly through the store looking for a chance to buy up scarce goods just put on the shelves," L. O. Wetterstrand, director of Helsinki's largest department store, said.

PROFITS IMMENSE

"When they spot something, they try to snap it up at the legal price and then re-sell it on the black market at a big profit.

"They particularly keep their eyes on the textile department. When we have them, they can buy good English woolen suits for between 15,000 and 17,000 Finnmarks ($110 to $125). That takes 60 clothing coupons—which may or may not be forged or stolen—and leaves ten coupons for a shirt. That's a year's ration. Then they resell the suit illegally without coupons at as much as double the price."

In addition to the black marketeers or their agents, who are practically impossible to detect, a high percentage of shoplifters hangs around the store, Wetterstrand said.

"Women are our best detectives and we have hired extra ones, but even so store thefts have increased 30 per cent over prewar days," he added.

Finland obtained some surplus U. S. army clothing—trousers, underwear, coats, socks and boots—which helped overcome the serious textile shortage last winter. This distribution, however, was restricted to men working in the forests and to workers in the reparations industries.

BUILDING LIMITED

Building materials are as critically short as textiles and are hampering the construction of new housing. Many apartments are being built with openings left for installation of plumbing, bath and other fixtures as they become available.

Modern store and office buildings which were near completion at the start of the war still are without plate glass windows. Boards are removed as the glass becomes available in small quantities.

On the whole, the import of luxury goods has been ruled out by authorities as unessential. Cosmetics, for example, are unobtainable unless they are of domestic origin.

Coffee cannot be bought in the grocery stores. Hotels and the bigger restaurants, however, will serve it at a black market price — slightly more than $1 a cup.

Similarly, American or English tobacco and cigarets cannot be obtained over the counter—only local brands noteworthy for their lack of tobacco content.

During the recent Swedish-Finnish cultural week here, Finns were attracted to the exhibitions by the limited sale of real coffee. A couple of hundred women usually were lined up mornings waiting for the exhibition rooms to open.

The most popular gifts are books.

"There's little else to buy as a present without a great deal of unnecessary sacrifice, so our book sales are booming," Wetterstrand remarked.

Some silver jewelry and other articles can be purchased but buyers are required to turn in an equivalent amount of silver.

Baby Better After Rare Operation

COLUMBUS — Richard Allen Hansen of Bucyrus, born 14 months ago with his bladder outside his body, was reported in good condition in a hospital here yesterday after undergoing a second operation since birth.

The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hansen, underwent the first operation six months ago. The surgeon, Dr. R. A. Keating, said the first operation provided for "substitute" organs to take over functions of the bladder. Dr. Keating Friday removed the displaced organ.

A third operation will be required when the child is six, Dr. Keating said.

Ashland Faces 'Double Time'

ASHLAND—Ashland will be on double time Monday. Most residents, business houses and factories will switch to fast time at 2 a. m. Monday.

Schools and state agencies in the city will conform but the Ashland county commissioners have ordered the courthouse to remain on slow time so as not to cause inconvenience to rural residents.

Ashland post office will use slow or Eastern standard time for carrier delivery service and mail dispatching but will operate the windows at the post office on fast time, 7 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Nankin and Montgomery district schools will change to fast time to conform with school buses which operate in conjunction with Ashland schools.

Tennis And Golf Teams Join Big Senior High Spring Athletic Roster This Week

By CHARLEY STINE

Senior high's already well-rounded sports program will add two more squads to its list this week with the tennis and golf teams getting the call to action.

With baseball and track already in full swing, the Tygers will be active on four fronts, not counting spring football which has just finished.

Both the tennis and golf teams have held informal workouts but official practice sessions for both will start Monday. Ten matches have already been scheduled for the golfers while the tennis squad, the first in many years here, is having trouble lining up opponents.

WILL KEEP SIX

Golf coach V. H. Oberlander intends to cut four men from his squad of ten candidates by means of a 27-hole tryout to be held at Coolridge Monday afternoon. The squad played nine holes over the course last Monday and the scores will be added together.

First match of the season will be held Tuesday with Norwalk coming here for 18 holes of play. Site of the match has not been determined since Coach Oberlander will attempt to divide the home play between Coolridge, Possum Run and Westbrook Country club.

The remainder of the golf schedule includes: April 29, at Shelby; May 4, Sandusky, here; May 6, at Elyria; May 13, Shelby, here; May 14-15, district tournament at Toledo; May 18, at Norwalk; May 20, Elyria; May 25, at Sandusky; May 27, Ashland, here; June 1, at Ashland. The state tournament will be played on May 21-22.

USE MATCH PLAY

Six-man matches will be played against the larger schools and four against the others. Match play will be in effect with one point being scored for each nine holes and an additional point for the winning of both nines.

All home matches will start at 4 p. m.

Competing for the squad Monday will be: Ed Percy, Bob Matthews, Bud Barth, Mike Oliver, Darwin Thatcher, Tony Taddeo, Jim Chamberlain, Bob Inscore, Steve Demyan and Charles Eglesston.

The tennis situation is not so well established with a much larger group of candidates to be pared and a smaller schedule. Fred Staub, faculty manager of athletics, is tutoring the netmen and has only two days to pick his team for Wednesday's first contest at Fremont.

Fremont comes here for a return engagement on April 28, while a series with Sandusky will be played, using the local courts on May 6 and the opponents on May 25. A pair of matches is also being arranged with Norwalk.

15 NET HOPEFULS

The 15 candidates for the team are: Jim Ganders, Shelly Swank, Don Elias, Jim Shelly, Chick Butler, Lee Ludwig, Howard Tipper, Jim Bargaheiser, Elmer Crowshire, Bill McGraw, Ray Waxler, Victor Geib, John Park, Doug Black, Rod Blahnik.

Athletes who compete in more than one sport will have a busy time of it this week as two baseball games and a pair of track meets are listed.

Coach Jim Lymper's Tyger baseballers will entertain Marion on the Blue Goose diamond at 4 p. m. Monday and Willard on Thursday.

The trackmen will be split into two squads Saturday with one group in the West Tech relays at Cleveland. The rained-out cinder contest with Lorain has been reset for May 3, according to Coach Harry Mehock.

My Request Dittoes Dad's Win In Wood Memorial

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Duplicating his daddy's victory in 1942, My Request shattered the Kentucky Derby hopes of 10 other three-year-olds yesterday by driving to a tingling length and a half triumph in the 24th running of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica.

Thus the handsome chestnut son of Requested, who won this mile and one sixteenth classic six years ago, goes to Louisville with a perfect record for the season and established himself a colt to reckon with in the Kentucky derby Saturday.

It was the first start for My Request, owned by Texas Ben Whitaker, since April 10 when he captured the Experimental handicap No. 2—and the colt was even more impressive this time.

And again a long shot came along to grab second money—this time C. V. Whitney's Mount Marcy, who closed at 40 to 1. Mount Marcy held a length margin over King Ranch's Better Self, who finished third after being established second choice in the wagering.

Made the even money favorite by the crowd of 48,711 persons who jam-packed this Long Island course, My Request paid off at $4, $3.20 and $2.40 for $2.

The victory, worth $34,600 to Whitaker, shot My Request's total earnings to $160,825. This was his fourth victory in four 1948 starts, and the tenth time he has entered the winner's circle. He has started 17 times in his brief career.

For a time it looked like a one-two Texas finish, as My Request and Better Self, from the big Texas King ranch, fought it out.

REQUESTED

My Request went the distance in 1:46 1-5, a full second more than it took his father six years ago. After his Wood triumph, Requested went to Louisville and finished fourteenth in a 15-horse field.

The customers bet $3,202,271, the biggest total of the 1948 New York season.

New London 9 Opens May 2

NEW LONDON—The New London Merchants baseball team will attempt to pick up where it left off last fall when it opens the season against the Ohio Boxboard team of Rittman here on May 2.

Thorne Cassell, who hurled a no-hit game in last season's finale, will probably be on the hill for the Merchants.

New London will play at Mansfield T. & E Tavern, Butler, and Shiloh on following Sundays. uniforms have been bought by the team and a new backstop erected.

Columbus Birds Shade Kansas City, 9 to 8

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Bill Baker's long triple followed by Billy Costa's short fly gave Columbus a 9-8 victory over Kansas City yesterday in the opener of a three-game Association series. Barney Olsen, running for Baker, scored the winning run with a dive after two out in the ninth.

Roy Broome of Columbus turned in the day's big hit, a home run over the centerfield wall with one on in the third.

Quantico Wins

MARIETTA —(AP)— The Quantico Marines, on a tour of Ohio, outslugged Marietta college's baseball team yesterday for a 9-6 victory. Pitcher Fred Volk and rightfielder Bob Johnson hit homers for the winners.

BIG CATCH—No, the youngster didn't catch this one but he's mighty proud to be holding it. The 38-pound bass was landed by a commercial fisherman outside the Oregon inlet in North Carolina.

Buddy Kerr Goes Back To Giants

BOSTON—(AP)—The suspension of Buddy Kerr, New York Giants' shortstop, will be lifted today when he will report to the club here for duty, Manager Mel Ott said last night.

Kerr was suspended indefinitely last Wednesday after he refused to play. Kerr contended he didn't feel able to. He was hit on the head April 14 by a thrown ball at Topeka, Kas. Doctors who examined Kerr, said he was sound physically.

Don Ritter Pitches Indiana To 7-6 Win

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(AP)— Don Ritter pitched all the way for Indiana yesterday against two Michigan hurlers but lost a tough 7-6 decision.

The Wolverines outhit Indiana, 14-11, but made three errors to two for the Hoosiers. Bob Moore and John Gorkis both homered for Indiana, while Michigan's longest hit was a triple by Bob Chappius.

Team Wants Games

Ontario Merchants baseball team wants to book games for the 1948 season. Managers can call 6615-4.

Ten Amateur Bouts Signed For Tuesday Show At F-H

Two exhibitions and nine decision bouts make up the fisticuff program the Friendly House and 40 et 8 club will offer Tuesday night at 8:15 p. m. in the Friendly House gym.

All except one of the decision bouts have been lined up by Matchmaker Mike Wentz. An opponent for F-H featherweight, Orlando "La" Carbetta has yet to be found.

Boys from Marion, Ashland, Willard and Greenwich will join the 10 F-H amateurs on the card. All bouts will be three two-minute rounds.

THREE CHAMPS

Three champions and a pair of runner-ups from the F-H amateur tournament two months ago will compete. The champs are: Carbetta, Don Esbenshade, 159, and Howard Carney, 127, Bill Eccles, 160, and Gene Ayers, 127, took seconds. All five boys are out of the Friendly House.

Pairings for the show follow: James Middlebrook, F-H, 124, vs. Gene Hunt, Marion, 122; Art Mowrey, Ashland, 149, vs. Harold Waiks, Marion, 145; Ray Burdine, F-H, 143, vs. Marion Roose, Willard, 139; Phillip Tuttle, F-H, 148 vs. Jack Seckinger, Marion, 145.

Gene Ayers, F-H, 127 vs. Lester Duvial, Greenwich, 125; Howard Carney, F-H, 127 vs. Dick James, Marion, 126; Bill Eccles, F-H, 160 vs. Ernie Arcuri, Marion, 160; Don Esbenshade, F-H, 159 vs. Eddie Williams, Ashland, 158.

WILLIAMS WIN

Williams defeated Esbenshade on an Ashland amateur card two weeks ago. Carney, Ayers and Burdine all won championships in the same show.

Two F-H lightweights — Alton Fowler and Ralph Greer — will open the show in an exhibition while Wentz's talented battle royal kids will put on one of their interesting scraps just before intermission.

Officials for the show are: judges, John Villella, Gyp Miller and Connie Miller; referees, Paul Carbetta and John Mandell; timer, Sam Fox; announcer, James Brownscombe.

Stocks Like Bullish News

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market fattened its spring rally this week on a rich diet of bullish news.

Although profit-taking sales slammed the brakes on leaders of the upswing and brought a slight setback Saturday, the week's gain was the best since March 20.

Cashing of profits proved too much of a handicap for the market in the short session. The stock average receded .1 of a point to 68 on losses for oils and some pivotal industrials.

Finishing lower were Gulf Oil at 70½, Pacific Western Oil 57½, American Can 86⅞, Standard Oil (N. J.) 81½, American Smelting 59¼ and Chrysler 60¾. Some of the rails, rail equipments and airline issues were better.

Grain Prices Change Little

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grains steadied Saturday after their shake out of the past two sessions. There was no strong rally but enough short covering came into the market to leave prices little changed at the close. Earlier, wheat had dipped a couple of cents while feed grains eased.

There were no strongly encouraging news developments.

Wheat on the board of trade closed 1 cent lower to 1¼ higher, May $2.40½-$2.41, corn was ¼ lower to ¾ higher, May $2.16¾-$2.17, oats were ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, May $1.09⅛-¼, and soybeans were 1 cent lower to ½ cents higher, May $3.95.

Segregation 'Apologists' Ignore Basic Principles

The acrimony of discussion of A. Philip Randolph's statement to the Senate armed services committee that he will advocate civil disobedience by Negroes unless racial segregation in the armed services is abolished serves as a barometer of the bitterness among Negroes and fear among many American whites. As president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Mr. Randolph occupies a position of unique influence not only among American Negroes but among many whites as well because of the reputation he has built for integrity, courage and unselfishness.

A great many individuals including Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon have sharply disagreed with Mr. Randolph's threat to advocate civil disobedience. But even such honest and able individuals as Senator Morse have indulged in intemperateness of language at least as marked as that of which they accuse Mr. Randolph. For example, Senator Morse labels as "treason" Mr. Randolph's statement and his threatened course of action.

Were it not so serious, the exchange of epithets would be ridiculous in view of the simplicity with which the issue could be settled were there courage enough in Washington to face the issue. The department of defense could abolish segregation overnight if it wished to do so. But the tragic truth is that the department of defense, with the exception of a few members of the top brass, has demonstrated neither the desire nor the willingness to act. This is true in spite of innumerable instances where in both the Army and the Navy nonsegregation has proved overwhelmingly successful, particularly between Southern white and Negro members of the armed services.

WHITE

Some of the apologists for segregation, including General Eisenhower, give as an excuse for nonaction the fact that segregation of Negroes in civilian life, particularly in education, has denied them the opportunity to develop leadership qualities which whites have enjoyed. They piously assert that there would be no opportunity for promotion to qualified Negroes if they had to compete with whites in mixed units of the armed forces. They also point helplessly to the undoubted fact that a much larger percentage of Negroes than whites were during the late war in classification 5.

If a member of the Armed Services has a low I.Q. due either to limited mentality or lack of opportunity, then he should be used, whether he be white or Negro, in branches of the service requiring lesser mental ability. But these apologists for segregation completely ignore the fact that every year the number of Negro graduates of high schools, colleges and universities increases by leaps and bounds.

In 1946-1947 alone, for example, more Negroes were graduated from colleges than during the entire decade from 1918-1927.

The total number of graduates during 1946-47 was 7,266 and even this is below the actual number because many Northern colleges do not classify their students by race. A total of 64,504 Negroes were graduated from college during the past 20 years and many times that number from high school. There were 706,800 Negro high school students in 1947 and 144,400 college students.

The overwhelming majority of Negro graduates from Northern schools have associated and competed with white fellow students. They have won their diplomas, in many instances making outstanding records, on a basis of sheer merit. But the War and Navy departments would ignore such facts and establish a pattern for all Negroes on the basis of the lowest educated Negro of the most backward county of Mississippi.

Senator Morse demanded on the floor of the senate that I make clear my position on Mr. Randolph's statement. I am happy to repeat here what I have said to Senator Morse. I do not share Mr. Randolph's faith in the efficacy of a civil disobedience campaign. I believe, as does Mr. Randolph that Negro Americans must willingly share the burdens as well as the benefits of citizenship. I most emphatically believe, however, that the disproportion between the burdens and benefits of democracy to the Negro has too long endured and in particular the degradation of segregation. I believe the best thing for America as well as for the Negro would be the immediate and total abolition of segregation which would instantly wipe out all need of discussion of "civil disobedience" or "treason."

Response To Appeal For Funds In Cancer Campaign Lagging

Only two per cent of Mansfield business and professional men and women to whom letters had been sent asking for contributions to the cancer fund campaign have acknowledged them, Richard Wolford, campaign chairman, said yesterday.

Letters were sent in lieu of a house-to-house canvass. These letters, which totaled about 250, personal solicitation, and the 300 coin boxes are the only means being used by campaign officials to obtain the $24,000 goal.

Wolford said more than $1,000 had been received and that contributions, although small in number so far, had been fairly large.

"If this sort of giving keeps up, we shouldn't have any trouble reaching our quota," Wolford said. "However, we expect that we'll have to extend our campaign time a week beyond April 30 because the industrial division was slow in getting organized.

"Making our goal this year is particularly important because of the need for a second period at the cancer clinic at General hospital." Wolford emphasized. "We want to continue the success achieved so far at the clinic and in order to do this and to raise our share of the National Cancer Fund campaign, we'll have to give and give as generously as possible."

Bike Thieves Active Here

Bicycle thieves were busy in Mansfield as the week drew to a close, police reported yesterday.

Four local children had their bikes stolen but two of the "wheels" were recovered, one by the loser and one by the police.

Kay Holbrooks, 98 East Fourth street, had her blue, white-trimmed bicycle, valued at $50, stolen from her front yard Friday night. Nine-year-old Harper Au, 203 Coul street, lost his white with blue trim $30 bike the same night.

Robert Gorman, Laver road, whose bike was taken from in front of the Western Union office on North Main street Friday night, found the bike at the Ohio theatre yesterday. A boy's windbreaker jacket which Au turned over to police was on the bicycle when found.

City police recovered a bike belonging to Robert Hiskey, 433 North Mulberry street, which was stolen from its parking place at John Simpson high school Friday, under a fire escape at the Masonic Temple on East Temple court.

Galion Receives SBEPSQSA Charter

Thirty-five members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., Mansfield chapter, went to Galion Friday night to participate in charter night activities for the new Galion chapter. The chapter has 25 members.

Ralph Hughes, president of the Mansfield chapter, presented the charter to Lester Tupps, Galion chapter president. G. E. Kalbfleisch spoke on behalf of the internation order of the organization.

Eight acts, taken from the recent show, "Alabamy Bound," were presented by Mansfield chapter members. Six quartets also participated. About 100 persons were present for the ceremonies in the American Legion hall.

Local Youth, 15, Reported Missing

A 15-year-old Mansfield youth yesterday was reported missing since 11 a. m. Friday, city police said.

The boy, Robert Williams, 552 Lily street, was described as about five feet tall, and weighing 115 pounds. The boy's father, Andrew Williams, said the youth was wearing a checked blue and gray suit and was bareheaded when he last saw him Friday.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

If the sun shines enough today Harry J. Dotson, principal at John Simpson junior high school, probably will spend his birthday out on his "acres" planting and maybe hoeing the little green onions. Dotson has long been known in Mansfield for his variety of hobbies. They range all the way from Boy Scout work to preaching. He is one of the city's oldest Scoutmasters. His hobbies also include his Masonic work. He's been principal of Simpson since 1940 and was head of Bowman school before that.

DOTSON

The News-Journal also extends birthday greetings to George H. Smith, head of the Mansfield Printing company.

After Two Hours Judge Delays Case

Motion Questions Attorneys' Actions

Common Pleas Judge G E. Kalbfleisch Saturday listened for nearly two hours to a motion questioning the action of two attorneys in accepting a settlement on behalf of their former client, then continued the case to May 8 because of the late hour.

One of the attorneys, H Eugene Ryan, was on the stand when the postponement was ordered.

He had testified that he and Attorney Glenn W. Marriott sought the settlement when they obtained facts differing from those previously given them by their client, James H. Weaver, 263 East Second street.

Weaver brought the action in an effort to have set aside a settlement reached in his $1,132 suit against Nathaniel Burrage, 9 Grandview avenue The settlement called for Weaver to pay $275 and Burrage $89 to subcontractors who helped repair Weaver's house It also called for cancellation of a lien on Weaver's house.

Ryan testified Weaver had told him and Marriott that his house was damaged when it was jacked up by Burrage. But, on the trial date, Ryan said, the attorneys learned that the jacks did not belong to Burrage and that he had not jacked up the house

Under questioning of Burrage's attorney, William Calhoun, Ryan further testified that Weaver and his mother, Mrs. Leona Weaver, was reluctant at first to agree to a proposed settlement.

"Did you fully explain the settlement?" Calhoun asked

"There's no question she knew the terms of the settlement," Ryan replied.

TELEPHONED LATER

Later, however, he continued, Mrs. Weaver telephoned to say she didn't want to settle. Ryan testified that he advised her "we reached a settlement in good faith" and that under the circumstances he no longer could represent her

Weaver, testifying under examination by his attorney, R. E. Hughes, of Columbus, said he left the matter of settlement up to his mother He denied knowing anything of a settlement until a sheriff's deputy went to the house to put it up for sale as the result of the judgment, he said

His mother, Mrs. Lena Weaver, also took the stand. She said she acted as agent for her son and asserted that she told Marriott "I will not settle the case."

She also said her first knowledge of a settlement came when the sheriff went to the house

2 Concerts To Boost Band Fund

Parents Club Backs Programs This Week

The Mansfield Tyger band at Senior high school will present a program in Senior high auditorium Thursday and Friday to raise funds for next year's program.

The concerts were scheduled by the Tyger Booster club and band and the Band Parents club in order to eliminate another Tag day event. The concerts will start at 8 p. m.

It is hoped that proceeds from the two nights' concerts will amount to at least $1,500, Ed L. Channell, in charge of publicity, said yesterday

This is the first time the three groups have collaborated to raise funds for the band's support and activities. During the past several years Tag days have been held but Channell said members of all three groups felt that there are too many Tag days now. This year, they decided to give patrons something for their money, he said

The program, under the direction of J. Merton Holcombe, will include band and orchestra numbers, specialty acts, both instrumental and vocal solos and dance numbers. The band this year has 85 members.

Tickets are on sale at Tawse's, Hunt's, and Sam Fox's jewelry store They may also be obtained from band members, members of the Band Parents' club and directors of the Tyger Booster club Directors include John Schroeder, William Daugherty, Don Weaver, Sherman Wentz, Earl K. Troll, Roscoe McGinty Channell, Peter Zeides, Frank Richards, Richard E. Creveling

Steel Output Boost Urged

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Murray (D-Mont.) called Saturday for joint efforts by the administration and industry to increase the nation's steel capacity by 10,000,000 tons

In a separate report prepared for the Senate small business committee, of which he is a member, Murray said

"The continuing steel shortage is the serious bottleneck which prevents American industry from supplying all the goods the nation demands" . . . and "offers the greatest threat to our security and foreign aid programs"

If industry is unable or unwilling to finance expansion of steel production capacity by 10,000,000 tons, he went on, then the government should provide RFC loans for that purpose at 3 percent interest. Repayment would be deferable during time of depressed business.

The country's economic growth was held back by at least $15,000,000,000 worth of business lost because of steel shortages in 1947, Murray said, adding that grey market prices alone cost businessmen $250,000,000 last year.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Someone Is Dying of Cancer Now!

IN LITTLE more than the time it takes you to read this editorial, some man, woman or child will have died of cancer in the United States. Cancer steals a life every three minutes. It is second only to heart disease as a cause of death.

And the tragedy is that RIGHT NOW, with present developments in medical science, the death toll of cancer could be cut one third!

Because one-third of all cancer cases can be cured if taken in time and given proper treatment.

That indicates how vital a part detection and diagnostic clinics, such as the one at General hospital, play in the growing battle against cancer. Persons who do not avail themselves of the facilities of such a clinic, when they have a sympton of what might be cancer, expose themselves to the possibility of passing the curable stage and facing death in lingering agony.

Those are not pleasant words: but they must be said.

There is no excuse for staying away from a detection clinic. The service is free to those who cannot afford to pay; the charge is moderate for those who can pay.

Second phase of the battle is unending research which ultimately is going to produce a positive cure for all cancer.

Mansfielders now have a chance to do their share toward supporting both the clinic and research on a national scale. They can do so by contributing to the American Cancer Society drive. The local chapter seeks to meet a quota of $24,000 which is small indeed in the job of capturing a murderer who strikes every three minutes.

Fair Distribution of Food Difficult

AT A RECENT meeting of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, members of the International Emergency Food committee gave warning to the 35 member governments that their work was encountering political snags.

International politics and national interests are threatening the allocation system, according to the committee's report. The work of this committee includes the allocation of world exports of scarce food supplies, which is handicapped by the fact that some nations participating in the program are making separate trade agreements, motivated either by political affiliations or by self-interest alone.

It may take some time for the nations of the world that have hitherto been guided by self-interest alone (and this means all of them) to learn to see the world as a group of economically interdependent units that will stand or fall, eat or starve, live or die together in the future.

National YWCA Week Being Observed

WITH VESPER services and thanksgiving ceremonies the Mansfield Young Women's Christian Association today marks the beginning of national YWCA week. Notable in the observance of the week will be the rededication by members of the association to the ideals of Christian living. These ideals have formed the basis of the organization here and elsewhere throughout the United States.

More specifically, the young women of the YWCA plan to re-emphasize the alignment of their work with the teachings of Christ, express thanks for their Christian heritage, and rededicate their building on South Mulberry street to the service of women and girls of the community.

Work of the YWCA in Mansfield is far-reaching. And this would be an ideal time for Mansfielders to familiarize themselves with the high principles and varied activities of the organization perhaps by a visit to the YW building or at least by a friendly word to acquaintances who participate in the year around program.

Scientists Urge Federation For Peace

ATOMIC scientists urge that the United States and Russia strive "to keep diplomatic relations at the highest governmental levels." Should present Soviet-American tenseness expand into war, these men fear that "our traditional civilization would collapse totally." Headed by Dr. Albert Einstein, the Emergency Committee of Atomic Scientists claims a profound responsibility toward the world because of the atomic bomb which science developed.

Better than other individuals these men know the threat to the whole world of this new power. They plead that it be controlled by world government in order that its vast potentialities be loosed for the good of man. They suggest that another war might enlist atomic power to destroy most of mankind, to make large segments of the earth untenable for human habitation, and bring agony beyond imagination.

These scientists recommend that a world federation be set up—without Russia, if necessary. They think that the Soviet Union will later be convinced that it cannot oppose such a body.

Valuable Old Coins Rarely Found

A DISPLAY of old coins was recently held by a collector's club at a public library in another city. Some carelessly phrased publicity listed various old American coins as valuable, and intimated that the average reader might unawares be carrying a fortune loose in his trousers pocket. Naturally a flock of excited people came in, with single coins or bagsful, hoping to walk out with a small fortune.

The library, not being in the coin business, referred inquirers to the president of the club, who broke the news that, to be worth real money, rare coins have to be in fresh condition, uncirculated if possible. Also that, even when the penny or nickel has gone up from its face value, that does not mean that it is going to bring a large sum. If a rare penny is now worth 20 cents, that is 20 times the original cost. This is a wonderful percentage of increase but 20 cents isn't very much money nowadays.

It is possible to make money on old coins or stamps, but like other forms of money-making, it takes time and study.

It was Mahatma Gandhi who said: "Truth is the first thing to be sought for, and beauty and goodness will be added unto you."

One observer defines an American as "a man who won't move to the rear of a bus or the front of a church."

A Voice From the Country

Old Political Parties Split By 'Wings'

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

STRANGE but encouraging things appear to be happening on the national political front. They have upset completely the pundits, the prognosticators and the pollsters. All three, I believe, are destined for further upsets before the two major political conventions have finished their work and the Democratic and Republican candidates are chosen. It seems to me that out of all the travail and confusion one thing is clear—that somehow, one way or another, there must emerge a conservative and a progressive party. That is really what all the shootin' is for.

BROMFIELD

For a long time it has been evident that the two-party system upon which this republic is based cannot function properly with two parties both of which possess radical, center and reactionary wings.

There eventually has to be a realignment in which the issues are clarified, and under which a voter may make a choice and have a reasonable certainty of getting what he is voting for.

This may come about through the reorganization of the two major parties or it may come about through the birth of a new party and the dissolution of one of the two older ones.

Judging from early primaries, the evidence is that the American people do not want Mr. Wallace and his barbarian cohorts nor do they want to return to the days of McKinley and Mark Hanna.

They are looking for a candidate and a party which fills the middle-of-the-road position: but it must be a road which leads forward and not backward, and upon which the traffic is moving.

Mr. Stassen's strength seems to be one strong indication of this fact. More perhaps than any other candidate he represents this tradition, which is essentially and politically the American tradition.

* * *

Sound Policies Lacking.

AT THE MOMENT the Democratic party represents a shambles in which all the elements are battling each other. Essentially it represents—with the southern reactionaries on the one hand, and the organized labor forces on the other, with its center detached and functioning as a separate division—nothing at all.

Moreover the division and shattering of its organization and its utter lack of leadership have immensely weakened its significance and potentialities.

The Republican party is less badly off but is almost as confused. There is again a radical, a center and a reactionary wing—all about equally strong.

To date it is less seriously split than the Democratic party: but no one can quite make out whether it is a progressive, a center or a reactionary party. On the score of able men and leadership, however, the Republicans are better off than the Democrats.

And this is where Mr. Wallace and his motley army with labels and banners come in. Thoroughly, and in a hopelessly confused way, they represent radicalism.

Wallace's nameless, faceless party is likely to poll a great many more votes than have been predicted, unless the whole situation is substantially clarified. Yet a great many of the votes he will attract will not be votes for Wallace or his party or his confused ideology: they will be the votes of people cast in protest against the confusion, division, lack of policy and direction displayed by the major parties.

Mr. Wallace is, of course, inconceivable as president of the United States; and the presence of the communists and fellow-travelers in any major American political party is equally inconceivable. But if his party displayed strength at the polls in November it is not inconceivable that it might become the nucleous of a new progressive-radical party which would greatly clarify the existing confusion and lack of concerted policy in the two old parties. Stranger things have happened in politics, even in this country.

The fact remains that there is no clear division of policy between the two major parties. What is lacking is polarization—the existence of two poles, one progressive, one conservative, between which the voters may choose, feeling that their votes will carry weight and not simply be lost in the general confusion.

At the moment they seem to be looking for a middle-of-the-road policy and candidate. Therein lies the strength of Mr. Stassen and his upset of the pollsters and prognosticators. Of course, a lot of these prognostications are based upon conditions in Washington or New York, where they sometimes cannot see the forest for the trees.

Let's Speak Frankly

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHY DOES the average wife believe that her husband owes her a perpetual debt because she married him and feel that everything she does for said husband is a favor which he can never efficiently repay?

You haven't conferred any more of a favor on the big boy by marrying him, sister, than he has conferred on you. You wanted him as much as he wanted you and worked as hard to get him. Maybe harder.

And he sacrificed as much for the deal as you did. It's a serious thing for a girl to put her life in a man's keeping, but it's just as serious for a man to put his life in a girl's keeping, and girlish dreams are not a particle more precious than a boy's illusions.

A boy can think as much romantic nonsense in a second as a girl can in a year, and it hurts him just as hard to be jarred out of it.

Tradition to the contrary, it's the groom who is all in a twitter, not the bride. She knows what she's all about, but he's betting on a couple of deuces. If anyone should wear the tulle and rosebuds, he should!

"But I sacrificed my freedom for my husband!" you say.

Well how about HIS freedom? You gummed up his liberty quite as much as he gummed up yours, and, in addition to giving up his liberty, he acquired the upkeep of another healthy human, plus possible additions.

"See how hard I worked for him!"

See how hard he worked for you! And why, at any rate should you regard your work as such an amazing performance? Wouldn't you have to work even if you hadn't married him? And wouldn't you have had to endure the normal amount of snub indifference, bad temper and backache incident to any job?

Then, why consider yourself an uncrowned martyr because you've elected to earn your living by keeping house, instead of typing letters or selling notions?

WHY SHOULD A GIRL WHO COULD NEVER QUALIFY FOR MORE THAN A TWENTY DOLLAR JOB WHEN SHE WAS SINGLE, EXPECT MILLION-DOLLAR SERVICE AFTER SHE MARRIED- AND BEEF ABOUT IT EVEN WHEN SHE GETS THAT?

"But I gave him the best years of my youth?"

You did nothing of the sort, sister. Your youth passed. You didn't give it to him—it just vamoosed, as all youth vamoosed. Growing old is nobody's fault. Why put him in the doghouse because time passes?

Be reasonable, lady! Your husthan you owe him. You elected to band doesn't owe you any more say, "I DO," and most of you worked overtime to get the chance to say it. You were wise.

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

THE LAST full week of the primary campaign is upon us. It is hardly a campaign in the old-time sense of ballyhoo and loud recrimination. But, don't think for a minute that politics is a forgotten sport, hereabouts.

* * *

Behind-the-scenes maneuvers have been going on for weeks around the courthouse and candidates have been wearing those hearty campaign smiles in all parts of the county. Local contests are few but the stakes may be large by next November.

* * *

Local politicians are not being fooled by the so-called apathy among voters. They take one look at the big voter registration and know that something is going to happen. People may not be talking much, but they made sure they would be entitled to vote. A good guess is that they will vote in fairly heavy numbers in the primary and in record numbers next fall. There is a hint in all this that the voters have already made up their minds about what they want. The primary and later the national conventions will show them where they can get it.

People-To-People Won Victory In Italy

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the great things about the Italian election was that, in more ways than one, it was a people-to-people victory. close, actual touch with the Italian people. And it was this contact, by millions of letters, by telegrams and by relief tory. While the Moscow radio was prating about the proletariat, the American people were in which tipped the scale in the Italian election. When this columnist traveled through Italy on the Friendship Train last Christmas, a large number of the cities were governed by communist mayors.

PEARSON

The deGasperi government hung on by a precarious margin. If an election had been held then, most observers agreed the communists would have won.

The Friendship Train, arriving at this particular time, helped make people realize who their real friends were. The state department's adroit moves in regard to Trieste and in getting the American fleet out of Italian waters, took the wind out of communist propaganda.

Ambassador Dunn's tireless efforts in publicizing the arrival of U. S. food shipments helped turn the tide.

And on top of all this came the friendship letter-writing campaign to the people of Italy. Suggested from Rome last December by this columnist, the campaign was pushed by Generoso Pope in his Italian - American newspaper, Il Progresso. Day after day he pounded home the idea. Then it was taken up by others, until a million extra letters a week cleared the New York Post Office for Italy.

* * *

Everybody Wrote To Italy.

ALL SORTS of people helped. Out in Toledo, Mayor Mike di-Salle formed a committee to encourage friendship letters. Unpublicized in the same city, Marion Antonini, a high-school student, worked late every night translating letters, even paying postage from his own pocket . . . In Philadelphia, Ralph Marlowe, chief interpreter of the municipal court, toured Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware drumming up letters to Italy . . . Citizens of Locust Valley, N. Y., organized "Operation Democracy," which they called the "People's Marshall Plan," and speeded up their plan of aiding the Italian city of Ponte Carvo, destroyed by war . . . In Schenectady, Pat Truchio helped raise $5,000 to send cables to the Italian people . . . In Jersey City, Richard Bonomo got up a special message from Italian-Americans addressed to the people of Laurenzana, the town from which they came . . . In Lansing, Mich., Mrs. Elizabeth Belen boosted the letter-writing campaign . . . Even in St. Petersburg, Fla., a city distant from the centers of Italian population, the chamber of commerce raised money for cables back to Italy . . . This is just a cross section of what thousands of Americans did in the people-to-people campaign to win the Italian election. The roll call is too long to call in one column.

War Brides Talk.

THEN there was radio. Walter Lemmon, of World Wide Broadcasting, an endowed foundation, turned all his facilities loose on Italy. Mrs. John Lodge, wife of the Connecticut congressman, devoted most of her time to helping beam these broadcasts . . . Generoso Pope's station WHOM, New York, gave Italo-Americans a chance to talk to their relatives back home . . . Some wept, some laughed, all exhorted their friends in Italy to vote for democracy. Crowds lined the street four-abreast, one block long outside Pope's radio station . . . And station WOV, New York, put on special programs by war brides. The communists have been telling Italians that war brides in the USA were mistreated, so WOV gave these war brides a chance to tell how they were living happily in America, how well Americans treated them, and how important it was to vote for non-communist friendship with the USA.

In other words the defeat of communism in Italy was because a lot of Americans really went out and worked at the job of making Italian democracy live.

Friendship Train of Books.

CONGRATULATIONS to Joseph Brandt, president of the Henry Holt Publishing company, for suggesting a Friendship Train of books for Europe. Mr. Brandt proposes that all publishers get together at the end of each year and donate their unsold nonfiction books about America to Europe. Large publishers, says Mr. Brandt, have thousands of unsold books about America gathering dust on the shelves. Why not send them to Europe?

Note—A train of books now may save a boatload of bullets later.

Truman and Spanish War.

WHEN GOP Congressman Tom Martin of Iowa introduced Horace Havenner, national commander of the Spanish War vets, to President Truman the other day, the President recalled his own excitement as a boy when the United States declared war on Spain.

"It was one of the biggest disappointments of my life that I was unable to serve," said Truman. "All my neighbors were going, but I was only 14 at the time and too young."

National commander Havenner, a Des Moines attorney who hails from Marengo, Iowa, in Congressman Martin's district, remarked that the ranks of Spanish War vets were dwindling rapidly.

Many of his colleagues, he said, would be attending their last big encampment when the organization celebrates its 50th anniversary in Washington this summer.

"Yes, it's sad to see them passing on," agreed Truman. "Three or four of my neighbors who fought at Manila died recently."

"But there is a happy note in that the people of Cuba, whom we liberated, will always be thankful to the United States," commented his visitor.

"I am sure of it," replied the President. "The independence of Cuba and the Philippines stand out as great illustrations of the role the United States has played and continues to play in recognizing smaller countries and helping them establish themselves."

Arabs Adopt Nazi Tactics

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON- A strange and grim undertone of the confused political and military situation in Palestine these days was provided in news dispatches from Haifa, the key seaport to the Holy Land.

After all-night fighting, Haganah, the Jewish militia, virtually seized control of the city, and issued surrender terms to the Arab national committee.

One of the terms demanded surrender of all German nazis in the Arab forces.

That such a demand should be made on an official basis and given such wide publicity indicates how vastly conditions have changed in Palestine within the past few weeks.

Little more than a month ago, this correspondent was in Palestine, and stumbled across the story of the erstwhile members of Adolf Hitler's wehrmacht who were filtering into the Holy Land to help the Arabs fight the Jews.

It was a story which was confirmed again and again by top Haganah leaders, but denied by Arab officials and—at the most—minimized by the British.

* * *

German Tactics Recognized.

FIRST indication of the presence of German officers in the ranks of the Arabs came one night when this correspondent was visiting a Haganah outpost along the Tel Aviv-Jaffa border.

Fighting broke out all through that sector during the night. Some of it was heavily concentrated on that one particular outpost.

But the Arab attacks did not follow their usual skirmishing type of hit-and-run tactics. Instead they came in head-on waves of fairly well-disciplined troops and, when the attacks failed, withdrew as units in the same manner.

At that time, I commented that their fighting was more like German than Arab tactics, and the Haganah men laughed and told me that the Arabs probably were led by Germans.

Later, I was shown papers which the Haganah leaders said had been taken from the bodies of Germans slain in border skirmishing. Also there were photographs of bodies, in Arab tribal clothes, which still carried the old Hitler S.S. elite troop tatoos.

And still later, when an Arab taxi-driver mistook me for a German, I was told laughingly that it would have been all right if I had been a Germany.

Haganah ofifcers said that many of the Germans were former members of Rommel's old Afrika Korps—prisoners of war who had escaped from camps in Egypt. Others, they said, had fled Europe for the Middle East after the reich's collapse, along an escape route which was kept open during the war years when the grand mufti of Jerusalem was visiting Adolf Hitler in Berlin.

Whether they fought as mercenaries, purely for survival and loot, or whether they welcomed the chance to continue the Hitlerian Jewish-extermination campaign eventually became a mere matter of academic argument—for certainly they improved the fighting tactics of the Arab outfits wherever they appeared.

* * *

Constant Additions.

HOWEVER, even then the Haganah leaders admitted that there probably were not more than a comparative handful of former nazis in Arab clothes.

"But more are coming in every day," one unit commander said. "They're being smuggled in across the border, and there's an active recruiting campaign going on now, both in Europe and among the homeless ex-wehrmacht members still in the Middle East. If this keeps up, they will one day become of considerable military importance."

All that, as was said before, was only a matter of a few weeks ago. Nevertheless, it would seem that in those intervening weeks enough Germans have joined the Arabs to become important.

The demand for their surrender ranked fourth in importance among the terms outlined in the Haganah victory at Haifa. A mere handful of Germans would not have been dignified by inclusion in the terms.

It begins to appear that even the participants in an ancient European struggle have been transplanted to Palestine — only this time, both sides are armed. It won't be a pogrom.

God's World

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

God's world is visible in Spring's gold splendor,
In burgeoning of vine and daffodil:
In the warm light appearing, and the tender
Smile of the sunlight on the gentle hill.

But more apparent even is the glory
Of God in the slow plans for peace that start,
And the determination that the story
Of goodness shall be told in every heart.

Speaking of Your Health

When Child Is Burned

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT IS a tragic fact that the leading cause of accidental deaths among children in the United States is burns. The tragedy lies in the preventable nature of many of these deaths for, with proper first-aid and the right subsequent treatment, many of these lives could have been saved. This is something for every parent to think about right now.

Burns are classified according to the degree of tissue damage; for example, the first-degree burn is one which just reddens the skin; in a second-degree burn blisters form, and in a third-degree burn the deeper tissues are injured or even destroyed.

Danger to Life.

Whenever more than one-tenth of the body surface is affected by a burn of second- or third-degree, there is danger to life. What can be accomplished by good treatment is shown by the ultimate recovery of many people who have had up to half of the body surface burned.

It was thought at one time that extensive burns were dangerous because the body absorbed toxic or poisonous substances from the burned area.

Today we are less sure about this, but we do know that one of the worst consequences of serious burns is the loss of body fluids and the consequent shock. A bad burn can prove fatal. Later on, the chief danger comes from toxemia. Subsequently, infection may develop and be another source of grave danger.

Thus, treatment is directed at combating these three things. It consists chiefly in the administration of drugs to ease the pain; the giving, by injection into a vein, of fluids to replace those lost from the burned area, and protection against infection.

Free from Germs.

Second- and third-degree burns are free from germs at the start but the damaged, weakened tissue makes an almost perfect soil for their growth should they obtain entrance to the wound. For this reason, most physicians do not favor the use of ointments, even though they are sterile and contain an antiseptic, because their application may contaminate the burned area with germs, causing an infection which may eat away more tissue than was destroyed by the burn itself. Then, too, if ointment is applied it will have to be removed later, a most painful process for the patient.

In all cases of severe burns, the first and most important thing is to call the doctor. If he can come at once, it is better not to attempt to dress the wound.

If his services cannot be secured promptly, wet dressings, made of a pint of sterile water and tablespoonful of baking soda, may be applied over the burned surface. But, remember, this is only emergency treatment. It will not suffice to heal the burn or to save the patient's life. For this, medical aid is required, and the sooner it can be had the better the chance for recovery.

Auction For Rural Life Center Is Rousing Affair

EVERYBODY BUSY

Whole families came. Mothers and children tended the bazaar or sold ice cream and popcorn; fathers bid for machinery or livestock

As a result of the auction and money previously raised by solicitation among Richland county farm folk, construction of the Rural Life Center is expected to start early next year. The idea of such a rural recreation place was first advanced less than eight months ago.

Every article auctioned or sold yesterday had been donated. Offerings ranged from bubble gum, later quite evident among the younger set, to a new disc donated by Farm Tools Inc. and which brought $128.

Robinson, who also donated his services, passed all day from article to article, through stacks of furniture and other household goods, amid the livestock, urging his hearers to go "just a little higher."

Many in the crowd were antique dealers who eagerly snatched up old pieces of furniture.

Outstanding among the antiques was the "grandfather's bed" and a marble-topped vanity donated by Byron Bricker of near Shelby. The two pieces brought $35, one of the highest prices bid on used furniture.

A milk cooler sold for a nickel, carpet sweepers at 25 cents, iron beds for a dime and radios for $5. A nicely-done water color went for 10 cents, frame and all.

Highest price on auctioned young livestock was $34, given for a six weeks' old bull calf from Raemelton farm. Other calves, most of them either pedigreed or grade cattle, sold for from $10 to $25.50. A bull sold for $73; a pet lamb for $7.25; a goat kid for $1.50.

But the most prized "buys" were five little collie and shepherd puppies, donated by Rev. Floyd Eckert of Pavonia. They brought only a quarter apiece, but the buyers hugged the panting dogs close to their breasts, scratching their furry heads and talking to them.

"It's a shame those pups didn't bring more. They'll make fine cattle dogs," one buyer said as a small boy, barely able to stand, squatted on the ground, babbling over and over again, "Puppy! Puppy!"

A new culti-plower went for $100. A milking machine brought $31; a cultivator $5, a corn planter $9.50 and a sheep sheering machine $3.

George B. Ganyard, county extension agent, termed the spirit of the auction "wonderful." He said a complete list of firms and individuals donating items to the sale would be announced later.

'Sad Sacks' Delay Bonus Payments To Vets In Ohio

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The sad sack type familiar to the Army is slowing some of the wheels in Ohio's $200,000,000 bonus-paying machine

Fouled up applications and discharge papers are gumming up some of the routine in the assembly line system set up by Bonus Director Chester W. Goble to handle about 800,000 checks.

"Each boner disrupts the routine and slows payment," Goble said.

Goble estimated about ten per cent of the papers are pulled out because they're made out wrong. These include badly soiled discharges, making it difficult to read dates and compute time into dollars.

But despite the messy discharge papers, poorly filled out claims and irritating letters, Goble's staff will start mailing checks next week.

Randall Anderson of the examiners section said many ex-GI's have altered figures by typing over original dates of service

This, said Anderson, is intended to stretch service time and raise the amount of bonus. The examiners must then take extra time to check local court records to obtain correct dates.

Wilfred Burns, head of the irregular claims section, listed these eight snafus which hold up the works generally:

Failure to sign documents properly; failure to have them notarized; failure to include original discharge papers, questionable residence in Ohio,

Failure to answer questions regarding penal time (which subtracts from bonus time); the question of bonus received from another state, dates of service; listing of correct active, foreign and domestic service periods, and difference in names.

Employment Sets Record

The number of employes on the Westinghouse payroll in Mansfield has reached a record high of approximately 7,300, H. W. Arlin, personnel director, reported yesterday.

The previous high point was during the war when the plant employed as many as 5,900 persons. The present high has been built up during the past year, Arlin said.

He reported that the personnel increase was plant-wide and includes all departments

Further increases in personnel will depend upon the steel situation, Arlin explained. Production at the plant has been increased during the last year and may be increased even more if steel can be obtained

REPORTS PURSE STOLEN

Mrs. Matthew Madden reported to police yesterday that her gray felt box purse was stolen while she was shopping in Kobacker's hat department yesterday.

Charge Not Aimed At Restaurants

Dr. Charles O. Butner, Shiloh, member of the county health board, said his charge of unsanitary conditions in Shiloh restaurants was aimed at "beer joints and other cafes which serve sandwiches and other food articles."

He said the village actually has only one dining place classed as a restaurant and it was all right as far as he knew.

His charge was made at a meeting of the board yesterday. Ray O. Scott, sanitary inspector, was asked to check the dining places.

Dr. Butner said he was misquoted in saying the garbage dumps near the vets' housing project in Shiloh had dead cats and dogs on them. "They have had dead animals on them, but I don't know that they do now," he said.

Food Supply Seen Likely From Water

'Phantom Bottom' 500 Feet Thick

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LA JOLLA, Calif. —(AP)— American scientists have stumbled upon a vast layer of life in the oceans which some day may become an important new addition to the world's food supply.

It is a layer of water 1,000 to 2,500 feet down and averaging perhaps 500 feet thick. It swarms with unidentified living things. These creatures reflect sound waves and thus register on echo sounders used to determine ocean depths.

The navy calls this layer "the phantom bottom of the sea."

It is ghostlike because it disappears at night and because no one yet has been able to get a sample of it.

University of California and Navy scientists unexpectedly found this layer in 1942 during wartime experiments. The group included Dean Carl F. Eyring, on leave from Brigham Young university; Dr. R. J. Christensen, formerly of San Mateo, Calif., Junior college and now at the naval electronics laboratory, and Dr. R. W. Raitt, now of the University of California's marine physical laboratory here.

Near Guadelupe island off Lower California the echo sounder registered bottom at 1,500 feet. The scientists knew the ocean there was 12,000 feet deep.

LAYER NOT SOLID

This layer was not solid, said Dr. Carl F. Eckart, now director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, but it contained something more substantial than water. A few small fish in every cubic foot of water in the layer might account for it he said, or even suspended silt.

Because of more urgent war research problems no further studies were undertaken for three years. In 1945 scientific curiousity led to further investigation. Dr. Martin Johnson, biologist of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, was called in.

"Does it move?" Dr. Johnson asked. "If it does, it must be alive."

It moved. Additional experiments with the depth sounder showed the thing disappeared between evening twilight and daybreak. It vanished by rising so close to the surface that the depth sounder would not register it. During daylight it returned to its usual position in the depths.

Did it exist anywhere else? It did. Scientists headed by Dr. R. S. Dietz of the navy electronics laboratory found it all over the Pacific from the Aleutians to the Antarctic. It existed even in the equatorial belt, where fish life in the open sea is supposed to be limited. The Oceanographic institution at Woods Hole, Mass., found it in the Atlantic.

Dr. Johnson's evidence that the layer is composed of living things, plus its presence nearly everywhere in the seas point to the existence of a source of protein in a space almost as large as the combined areas of the oceans, which cover three-quarters of the earth's surface.

POTENTIAL FOOD

Such a tremendous cache of potential food, efficiently utilized, could mean the difference between scarcity and plenty for all humanity.

A sizeable net with a fine enough mesh to catch minute things produces so much drag that it is apt to be torn as it moves through the water with speeds great enough to catch the faster swimming life.

Dr. Johnson thinks the layer is made up of a mixture of depth fishes, squid, prawn and the tiny plankton on which they prey. This mixed population might include arrow worms, which are transparent things about an inch long and various crustaceans such as tiny shrimp, lobsters, barnacles and other forms. Some of these creatures are no bigger than the shreds of tobacco in a cigaret.

Dr. John Lyman, Oceanographer of the Navy Hydrographic office, believes the layer is composed of squid. The life layer, Dr. Lyman asserts, rises surfaceward at the rate of 10 feet a minute, a speed far too great for small sea denizens.

The tipoff, Dr. Lyman believes, is that the seas everywhere are well populated with whales which live on squid and cuttlefish. Fur seals and many sea birds also eat squid.

Whatever it is, the nature of this tremendous vein of protein must be determined before anything can be done toward putting it to human use.

It's a 'Creative Art,' Rev. Madden Says

Pastors Tell How They Prepare Sermons

By NORMAN DRESSER, N-J Sunday Editor

Preparing sermons is no glib technique but is a "creative art" requiring many hours of thought and work, two representative Mansfield ministers declared yesterday.

Although the two pastors use opposing methods of preparation, both agreed that the Sunday sermon was one of the minister's most important duties.

Interviewed were Rev. Mathew G. Madden, pastor of the First Congregational church, and Rev. Charles Shook, the new pastor of the United Presbyterian church.

Rev. Madden uses a distinctive method of writing out his sermon in full length. Then after many hours of study, he speaks from the pulpit without using the manuscript. At most, he will carry into the pulpit only a few notes containing quotations.

Rev. Shook, youthful pastor of the Presbyterian church, uses the extemporaneous method, not writing out his sermon and only infrequently using notes. But both ministers agreed that long hours of study was needed to prepare an interesting sermon.

"Sermonizing is a creative art," Rev. Madden said. "The topic must fit into the times, and the congregation's interest must be captured throughout the dissertation."

HE LIMITS SERMONS

"And," said Rev. Madden, smiling, "you can't save a soul after 20 minutes. So I limit my sermons to 18 to 20 minutes. I'd rather make a short, interesting sermon than a long, dull one."

The Congregational minister estimated that he spends from 14 to 16 hours a week preparing his sermon. He follows a rigorous schedule, setting a Saturday noon deadline for completion of the sermon.

"I write my sermons out because such a method develops style, increases the vocabulary and keeps one from getting in a rut," he said. "It's a form of mental discipline that prevents one's sermons from becoming dull."

"Usually about the first of the week I get an idea for my sermon. My ideas? Well, they come from the time of the year—the Christian season—from my reading. I get lots of ideas from observation of Park avenue west.

"Then follows the tough period I sit down and think the idea through jotting down every thought and organizing ideas. The ideas are the skeleton of the sermon. Then comes the clothing, which I find in my library and in everyday reading.

6,000 ILLUSTRATIONS

"After that I consult my 'illustration file.' That's a card index containing six or seven thousand illustrations to fit almost any idea I use in my sermons. I make notes from almost every book I read—sometimes dozens or hundreds of notes from a single book. From Holt Bachon's 'George Washington Carter,' for example, I have 382 illustrations or cards.

"Then comes the writing," he continued. "The most important part of the sermon is the first three sentences. There one must catch the congregation's attention. Almost equally important is the conclusion, which must have a climax and anti-climax to drive home the point of the sermon.

"I don't exactly memorize my sermons, but I do memorize the outline, the key words and the illustrations. This method, I think, gives a sermon a free, extemporaneous flow while at the same time it develops style and one does not get in the habit of using the same old words and the same old words."

Rev. Shook uses a more conventional method of preparing his sermons, but he, too, believes holding the interest of the congregation is of prime importance.

"Although the topic of the sermon is governed somewhat by the seasons," he said, "I must study the needs of the congregation in selecting a topic."

"In general, I aim to cover the general scope of the Christian faith. I also must take into consideration the world situation and interpret the Christian faith's reaction to world events.

"Generally, I use the extemporaneous method. I pick the subject at the first of the week and during the week I study the topic, selecting pertinent quotations drawn largely from the Bible."

Rev. Shook said "one of the greatest problems of the minister" is selecting a subject. He pointed out that sometimes he spends more time picking a topic than in the actual preparation. He limits his sermon to "about half an hour," and said sermons are "an art."

"Ministers are overseers of men's souls, according to the Bible," he said. "The Bible says the word pastor means 'to feed,' while the word minister means 'an assistant.' Thus as an agent of God I feel it my duty to interpret the Bible as His word, and I use the Bible for quotations and topics in many sermons."

Both Rev. Shook and Rev. Madden agreed that preparation of the sermon is but a small portion of the weekly duties of the minister. At the same time, they said sermonizing is a hard task requiring much study and effort.

Girls Should Wed Youths, Doctor Says

Wives Live 8 Years Longer Than Mates

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Girls should set their caps for husbands younger than themselves, as one step to avoid widowhood in old age.

That advice comes from Dr. Clive M. McCay, professor of nutrition at Cornell university. Right now wives usually live eight years longer than their husbands, he said.

This eight-year difference is due partly to the fact that most women marry men a few years older than themselves. But there still would be a difference even if they married men of the same age. The females simply are bilologically stronger. It's true of humans as well as animals, Dr. McCay added.

There are reasons, economic as well as romantic, why women probably won't choose younger mates. Because they don't, the years of later life bring more problems for women than men, he told a recent conference on questions of aging.

Housing is one of these. Where will the widows live? Many will need jobs; all should have social activities, entertainment, hobbies or other activities. Dr. McCay thinks such problems are something that women's clubs should be keenly interested in. More Americans are living longer, and the majority of the longer lives are being lived by women.

SUGGESTIONS MADE

Cooperative housing has been one suggestion. Another is small apartments especially for older people. Life insurance policies that pay adequate sums at certain ages and economic levels are another.

In medicine, more stress is being placed on treatment and wise living to prevent the disabilities of old age, and to maintain health, strength and enthusiasm through the later years.

On the food side, one step toward this is a new super-bread, high in calcium and in inexpensive proteins, Dr. McCay said.

Calcium is vital to life and friendly to youth. Youngsters need it, but older people also need it, in large quantities. Unless they get enough, calcium is taken from their bones and other tissues.

The bread was developed after it was observed that many patients in mental hospitals were older men ond women, and that they often ate eight or nine slices of bread daily. The new bread contains six to eight per cent of dry skim milk, which is a cheap, good source of calcium, Dr. Macy said. It also contains about six per cent soy flour to add proteins cheaply. Its cost is about the same as ordinary bread.

Such a bread is good at any age, he added, but older people would find it especially valuable. Dr. McCay urges a campaign to provide inexpensive, high-food value baked goods for older people. Many of them live in rooms or small apartments where cooking isn't conveinent. And their pensions or income usually are small. The older people will need more of such foods specially designed to help maintain health and energy.

PITENDREIGH G. ROSS, whose unusual name is taken from a district in his native Scotland devoted to sheep and cattle raising, was a long time friend of the Wallaces of Iowa. He is not acquainted with "Young Henry," as he calls the third party presidential candidate. Here "Pete" proudly displays a photograph of the "greatest Shorthorn sire in history," Avondale, international grand champion, of the once fabulous Carpenter-Ross farms here.

Mansfielder Discloses—

Henry Wallace Forebears Lived Here

bought a large part of the Kelly herd and brought it to Richland county.

Ross arrived in Mansfield in 1904—in a cattle car.

Sometime after the Carpenter-Ross farm was established Ross had a telephone call from Henry I, who was passing through Mansfield on his way back to Iowa following an eastern trip.

Pete suggested that Wallace meet Carpenter at Carpenter's Citizens bank and come out for a tour of the farm.

A few hours later the three men stood watching a herd of cattle browsing in a field of newly-purchased and still unplowed land, much of which was swampy.

Wallace, Pete recalls, suddenly said, "Gentlemen, I think you are making a mistake in trying to farm this land. If you would give it a proper discing and seed it with Alsike clover, it will be worth more to you in pasture."

"Yes, Mr. Wallace," Carpenter replied, "that might be all right in Iowa, but will it work in Ohio?"

"I know it will work in Ohio," was Wallace's decisive rejoinder.

Carpenter, a farmer in his own right, demanded, "And just how much do you know about Ohio, Mr. Wallace?"

CHILDREN BORN HERE

After a moment's hesitation, Wallace replied, "I know this much about Ohio, sir, all four of my children were born in the house in which you live."

He was referring to the home built by Colonel Cantwell, a Mansfield soldier of note who was killed in the second battle of Bull Run.

The house was built on a 40-acre plot south of Wood street and was afterward owned by the Covenanter church and called "The Manse."

Ross once discussed the conversation between Carpenter and Wallace with John Wallace, uncle of the present Henry, and son of Henry I who had lived in Mansfield.

John Wallace told Ross that his father, Henry I, had come to Richland county from Pennsylvania to accept a call from the Covenanter church of which the strict "church going" Wallaces were devout members.

"Preacher Henry," as the old gentleman was called, married Colonel Cantwell's daughter, Nannie, and though Pete is not sure, he thinks the ceremony was performed in the same house—"The Manse" — where the present Henry's father was born.

When the Covenanter church was unable to obtain a reasonable following "Preacher Henry" moved on to Iowa and the church here was abandoned to become a livery barn and blacksmith shop.

Ross was also acquainted with President Warren Harding and once gave that worthy gentleman three bottles of excellent Kentucky bourbon when the President was passing through Mansfield.

At a later date when Henry Wallace II was Secretary of Agriculture under Harding, he, too, stopped at the Carpenter-Ross farm. Pete, ever the proper host, trotted out a bottle of the same mellow "Kaintuck" corn.

After a few sips, Pete remembers, Wallace smacked his lips and remarked, "Humm. This must be the whiskey Warren was talking about."

Ross, who bred winners of eight international grand champion titles, visits the International Livestock show each December.

At one of the meetings of this group Ross asked John Wallace to cash a government check which he had received for compliance with the A.A.A. farm conservation program.

Despite the fact that the check was for only two cents, Wallace, who shared the family displeasure that his nephew Henry was not only a Democrat but a New Dealer as well, refused to cash it with the words, "Pete, I am still a Republican!"

Ross, who vaguely remembers meeting the present Henry when he was a child in Iowa, says he is not trying to "boost Wallace's stock, neither," he continues," do I wish to buy any of it. But after reading of some of his ideas, I will say that I agree with him in part as it is hard for a man with so many ideas to be wrong all the time."

And with a twinkle in his eye, Pete will tell you, "the Wallaces were mighty fine people, and real Christians, but it is a common saying in the part of sheep-raising Scotland where the Wallaces hail from that there is a black sheep in every flock."

War Dread Tempers Joy Over Red Defeat

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS—(AP)—Happiness at the anti-communist victory in Italy has swept like a spring breeze over western Europe this week but the icy dread of a Russo-American war would not melt.

Democratic diplomats from London to the Dardanelles took new courage. So did the anti-communist parties in France, the country which felt it was next on the list if communists won in Italy.

But the first jubilant comments were tempered when two unescapable facts kept demanding attention.

1. In Italy 30 per cent of the population had voted for Russia against the West, and France also had a 30 per cent block of communist followers that would not dissolve.

2. Two great powers, America and Russia, continued to shoulder each other around in a world that seemed lately too small for both of them.

The first quick result of the West's victory in Italy was a softening of communist attacks.

Communist newspapers from one end of Europe to the other first declared the election results were faked, then published them with claims that the vote showed the communists had solidified their position.

What the communists might try next—and where—could only be guessed. Harassing tactics continued in Berlin and Vienna. One thing was certain, the objective remained the same. The communists would continue to oppose the Marshall plan in Europe. In France, some believed that quiet efforts to sabotage and hamper the government would continue.

SOVIET LEADERS CONFUSED

Diplomatic dispatches from Moscow reported the communist high command seemed confused and was therefore silent. In the several days after the elections, the biting attacks against "American imperialism" were softened.

Some sources here indicated that Russia was worried about the war talk in America and was moderating her tone so Congress would not pass a draft bill.

Frenchmen are genuinely worried by the war danger. Many think it is only a question of time and are discouraged by it. The most frequent question put to Americans is: "When will the war begin?" It almost overrides curiosity about the next President. It was barely three years ago that the Germans were driven out of France. Frenchmen who support the American position know what would happen to them if the Russians rolled through here.

Nevertheless, the Italian election pleased Frenchmen more than anything since the liberation in 1944.

The reason was clear. Italy's election had blighted communist hopes in France, at least for the time being. A communist deputy in the assembly who started a harrangue against the government on a controversial school bill was harshly silenced by Maurice Thorez, No. 1 communist in France.

"What now," he snapped at his surprised colleague, "starting that again?"

The soft glove was on the communist fist in France.

Employment In U. S. Hits Record Peak

Nation Faces Acute Shortage of Labor

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The U. S. faces a labor problem so tough that government labor experts say the work call will go out for all hands—including women and retired workers—by midsummer.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the U.S. Employment Service, predicts around 61,000,000 people will have jobs. In July, 1947, some 60,078,000 were employed, an all-time high record.

Goodwin says the situation is more critical than at the start of the war because then the nation had an "unemployment pillow" on which to drop its wartime labor recruiting problem. There were 7,000,000 unemployed in 1940, but Goodwin says unemployment virtually is nonexistent today.

Military and civilian officials have conferred several times recently on the labor crisis which they say must arise because of the European recovery program, the U.S. defense program and civilian industrial requirements.

President Truman's economic council has advised him labor recruitment should be on a voluntary basis. Emergency recruiting powers have expired.

JOBS AVAILABLE

Privately government officials say the availability of materials will help control the labor situation as it did during the war. That is—if material controls become necessary, they say, it meaans essential materials will be shunted to necessary industries and workers will follow the materials.

Statistics list 2,400,000 people "unemployed" today, but Goodwin says this is misleading. Actually, he says, they were only shifting from one job to another or were temporarily out of work. Jobs were available for them.

Although there is virtually no reservoir of unemployed, there are an estimated 5,000,000 persons outside the labor force today who were either in the civilian labor or military forces in 1944. (Technically, the "labor force" means persons working or looking for work).

These mostly are women, men now retired or veterans who were in the military forces in 1944.

Goodwin says the most important part of the 1948 labor recruiting program will be to induce some of these people to return to jobs. Many of the women, however, now have families and many of the veterans are in school and probably won't leave except for patriotic reasons or offers of high salaries.

Other ways of meeting the production demand include longer hours of work, reclassification of jobs and importation of foreign labor.

FOREIGN LABOR DIPS

Reclassifying means assigning a couple of assistants to a skilled worker. Altogether they may turn out the work of two or more skilled men.

During the war foreign workers were an important part of the labor forces. About 315,000 prisoners of war and other foreigners helped. The foreign labor force this year is expected to total from 50,000 to 60,000 agricultural workers from Mexico.

Goodwin says the big problem this year will be matching supply with demand, promptly.

As an example, a $100,000,000 shipbuilding program and an aircraft construction plan costing several billions are being discussed.

If steel becomes short and is shifted to ships from automobile and other industries, it might mean a movement of auto workers to such shipbuilding centers as Norfolk, Va.

A similar shift might be necessary to man the aircraft plants. At least one plant already is advertising for workers.

If employes leave other essential employment to work on ships and aircraft, other workers have to be recruited to replace them. One ripple of this kind might might cause a wave that would disturb the whole labor market, Goodwin says.

The squeeze is expected by midsummer.

"A year ago agricultural employment climbed 3,600,000 between February and June," Goodwin says.

"Agricultural crop goals are at least as large this year as last. Demand for farm and food processing workers certainly will be as great as last year.

"An addition of 3,500,000 agricultural workers will increase total employment close to 61,000,000 ""

Three-quarters of all men 18 and 19 years old now are in the labor force. Eighty-two per cent of males 20-24 years old also are employed. Selective service or universal military service would draw heavily on this group of workers unless there are deferments.

"Shortages of a number of essential civilian items are still acute and the country does not have the backlog of automobiles, housing, refrigerators and other things that it had in 1940," Goodwin says.

"For example the average automobile in 1940 was about 4½ years old. Today it is about 9½ years old.

"Consequently civilian industry is not as prepared today to stand as heavy a strain as it was in 1940."

Young Mansfield Couples Buying Tasteful, Sensible Furniture

By BOB EDWARDS

With June, the traditional wedding "season" little more than a month away, the furniture and home furnishing marts in Mansfield are playing host to increasing numbers of "prospecting" prospective brides and grooms.

Despite the still serious housing shortage young folks continue to fall in love and get married, and some of them are lucky enough to find apartments or houses.

Even if the newly wedded couple can find only a couple of empty rooms with "Mom and Dad" they want to have a few pieces of their own furniture. They want something that is theirs.

And the remarkable thing about it all is that these young people can be depended on to buy furnishings which are not only of good quality and in good taste but comfortable, sensible and extremely useful, according to several of Mansfield's leading home furnishings dealers.

William Clay, general manager at Bing's, says "The trend is away from period or provincial furniture. Young people today want modern lines along with ease and comfort in the furniture they buy."

"Utility is the first consideration now," according to Harold Robson, manager of O'Neil's furniture department.

Furniture Man Charles Riggle at Sears has found that "functional furniture for a definite purpose is in demand. Living in fewer rooms has changed the furniture buying habits of Mansfielders. For example, studio couches which are attractive sofas purpose furnishings of this nature are very popular now."

As for colors, the most popular color for sofas, chairs and rugs seems to be gray. Vera Scott, manager of the Ross Rug company has found that large, pleasantly designed floral patterns on a gray background make for big sellers in rugs and carpets.

GAY COLORS POPULAR

Gay colors, in chintz and cretonne fabrics, are popular for occasional chairs and often for sofas, although for the latter, mohair friezes seem to have the edge locally.

Plastic upholstered chairs and ottomans more popular with men by day and comfortable beds by night are enjoying a vogue. Dual than women, are being purchased in increasing numbers for solariums and game rooms. The durability is the same or better than leather and the saving is tremendous.

Blond woods and the more pronounced striped walnuts are sought after for vanities, chests of drawers, small tables and large pieces of wood furniture.

Table lamps which put the light where it's needed are being put to greater use than before and have almost replaced central ceiling fixtures, floor lamps and bridge lamps although the latter two are still popular.

Science has rightfully taken over the lighting field and the lamps these days are functional as well as decorative. Lamps are seldom used now solely to "dress up" a room. They're there to LIGHT the room.

Two piece and sectional sofas which are "mobile" and lend themselves well to use in small rooms are being snapped up.

Most people seem to be tired of plain or solid color carpets and Vera Scott at the Ross Rug company attributes this to the after war search for gaity and color. Wall to wall carpeting which does away with the need of hardwood floors is now common in newly-built homes.

BROADLOOM WEAVES

Seventy five per cent of the people are buying broadloom weaves in rugs, according to Mrs. Scott, who says it's to customers advantage to use broadlooms when he can.

Mrs. Scott also reminds buyers that while there has been a 192 per cent cost increase in the commodity market over pre-war days, there has been only a 39 per cent increase in the cost of carpet.

Robson at O'Neil's finds that interest is being focussed on living rooms and bedrooms these days and the buyer's response is to put his furniture money into those two rooms.

Mirrors, which make small rooms look much larger, are almost a "must," apparently. There is now at least one large mirror in the living room of most homes, and if there is a fireplace, the big mirror gravitates to the spot over it, it seems Bing's William Clay finds people putting more money into comfortable beds with good springs and comfortable mattresses. "It's a bad place to skimp," he says.

Everyone seems to agree that buyers today will spend money to get what they want and most shoppers are after quality first with price the secondary consideration. Furthermore, today's buyerer is a wiser, better, more careful shopper than he once was. He usually knows what he's after, too.

Generally, furnishings are increasing in quality and are often better than pre-war quality. The buyer can now get almost anything wished for with practically no waiting period.

As Riggle, at Sears puts it, "Why, the furniture houses are even putting salesmen on the road again. They're asking us what we WANT!"

FURNITURE HIGHLIGHT—This luxurious French provincial commode is a fashion highlight and the reason is that it is both decorative and informal. The rich amber coloring of beautifully selected walnut contrasts luxuriously with the choice brass fitments and the new deep toned wall colors so much in favor this season.

Shortages Still Plague Contractors In Mansfield

Builders Hesitate To Start

Investors Afraid Of Rising Costs

By SHELDON BINN

Plagued by material shortages and faced with rising costs, Mansfield contractors have slowed down slightly their building activity this year.

Builders are caught between the frying pan and the fire. Reticent to build homes on a contract basis because rising costs during the construction period might wipe out their profit, they are not sure of the market and are hesitant to start work on a "build to sell basis."

During stable years, many contractors were willing to contract to build a home for a prospective builder for a given price and then go ahead.

Today, however, prices fluctuate so much the profit might disappear in one price hike. Speculative building, on the other hand, where a contractor puts up a house and then hopes to sell it at a profit, is also hampered because of uncertainty of just how much the average home buyer is willing to spend.

During the first three months of 1948, twenty-five residential building permits were issued by the city as campared with 38 for the same period last year.

INDUSTRIAL BUILDING UP

The number of permits for new industrial buildings climbed, however, from nine during the first three months of 1947 to 16 during the first three months of this year.

Contractors point out, however, that most residential building is being done in the suburbs, where building permits are not required. Hence there is no way to determine accurately the amount of building this year as compared with last year.

Nevertheless, they emphasize a slackening of residential building.

The slack in residential building and increase in commercial in Mansfield reflects the trend for north and eastern Ohio as reported by the F. W. Dodge company, New York, a building statistical research firm.

It reported that non-residential increased 55 per cent, but that residential contracts declined 19 per cent.

Meanwhile, the price of building materials and the labor needed to put that building together keeps rising.

Such things as freight rate increases and coal price hikes are reflected in the cost of building materials. Labor costs are approximately 25 cents per hour per man higher.

HOUSING PROJECT OPENS

In the field of large scale residential building a unit has been recently completed and several others are under construction.

The veterans housing project on Grace street at Cherry was opened several weeks ago and now houses 24 veterans and their families. It was built by the Metropolitan Housing authority with funds given to it by the federal government.

Frank Beymer has taken out a building permit to build a $38,000 four-apartment building at 608-610 Stewart ave. Each apartment will have four rooms.

The largest single piece of commercial building to be undertaken this spring is the construction of a $17[illegible] laundry and boiler room for the Independent Towel and Supply company at 221 Longview avenue. Simon Small and Sons, Inc., is building the structure.

The Ohio Brass company has contracted with Jacob Wolf for the construction of a $50,000 warehouse on the site of the Ohio Brass property. The structure will be used to store raw materials.

Contractor Frank Beymer is putting up a $47,000 service building at 50 Park avenue east for the Reindl Spring and Alignment company.

BUILDS GREENHOUSES

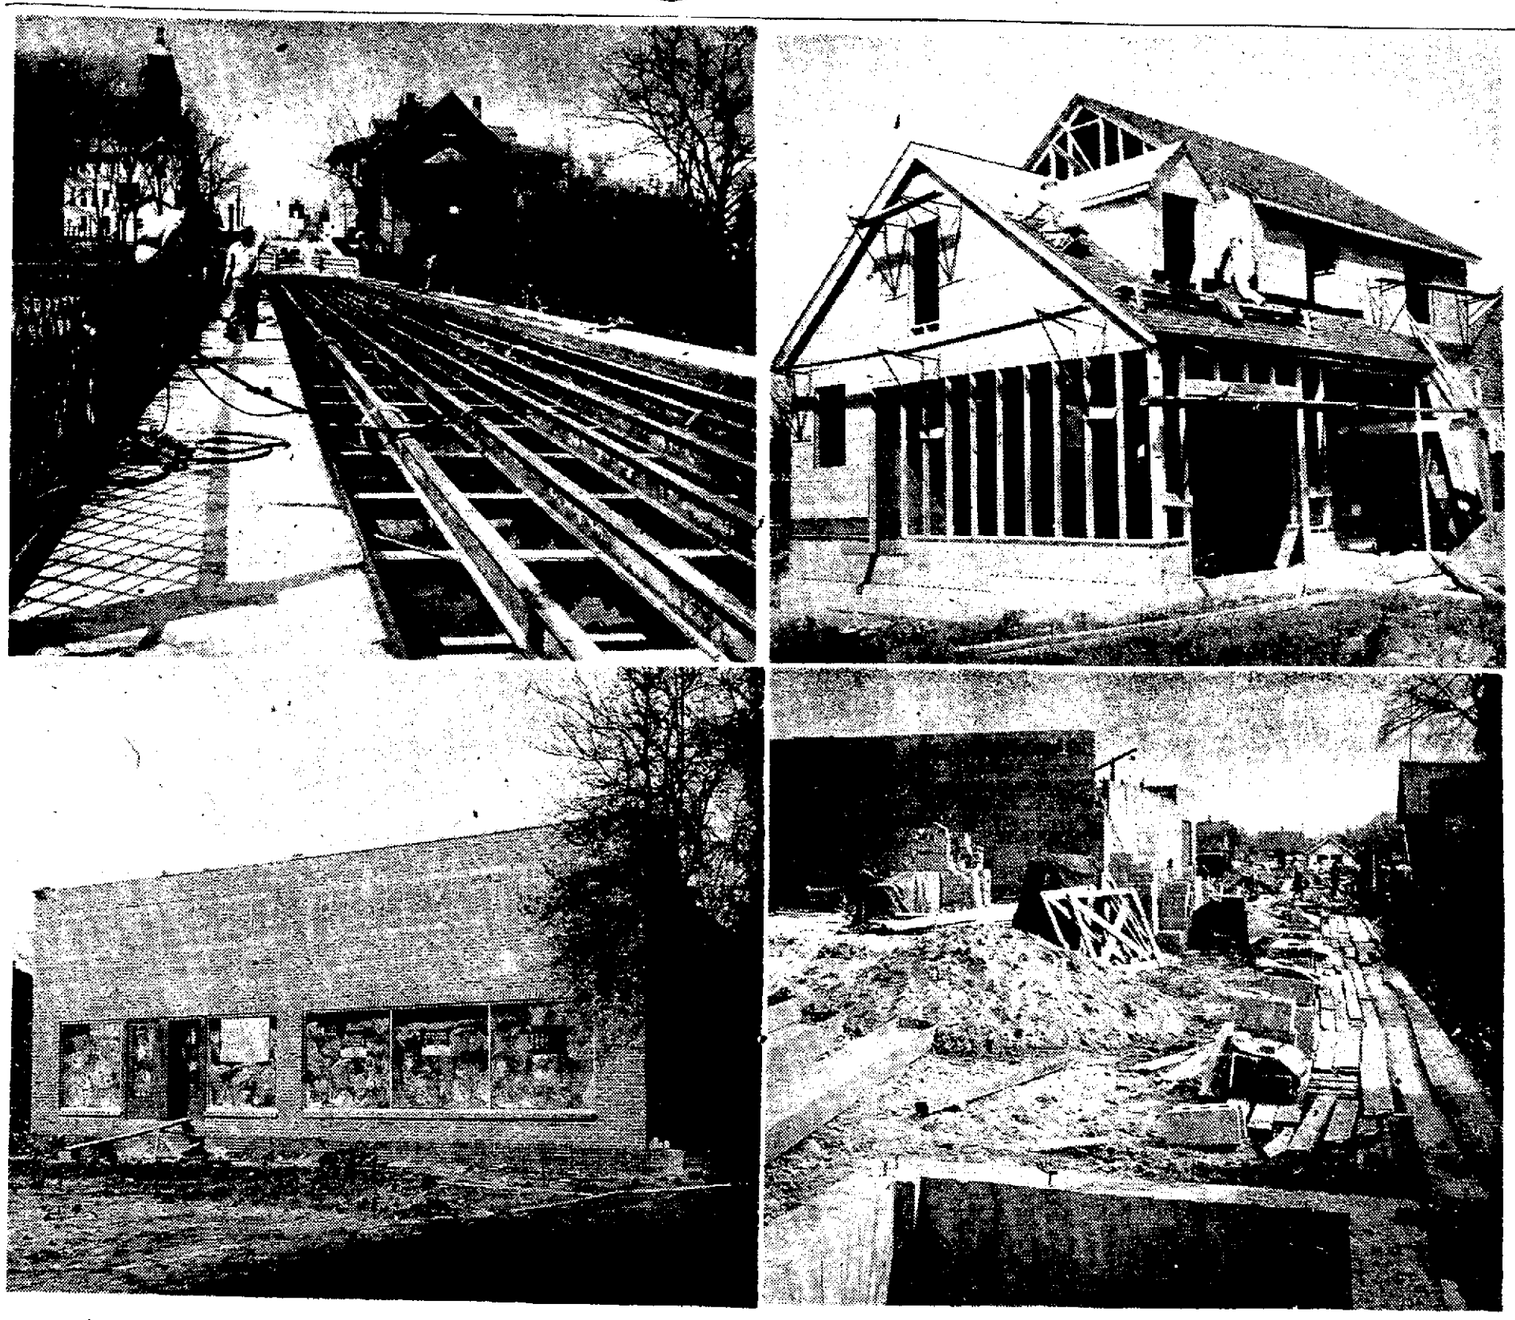
Five greenhouses are being constructed at 275 Cline avenue at an estimated cost of $25,000 for the Stuhldreher Floral company by Henry J. Bishop.

Other less costly construction projects underway or due to get underway include a "lubritorium" for the Standard Oil company at 502 West Fourth street and a $10,000 factory building for Glenn W. Taylor and Sons, metal products at 150 East Longview avenue.

Almost complete and ready for its opening is Hall's Shamrock Food Market on Park avenue west at Helen avenue.

G. L. Rogers reported the Contractor Frank Beymer should complete his remodeling of the old Majestic theater on North Walnut street adjacent to the Yellow Stripe Cab company office, in the next two months.

He has not decided what the renovated structure will be used for, but a firm has contacted him about renting it for an auto accessory store.



VARIED BUILDING IN CITY—Here are some of the varied types of public, private and industrial construction going on in Mansfield this spring. The city is repairing the Mulberry street viaduct (upper left). Typical of the residential building is the house being put up by G. W. Getz at 624 Barnard avenue (upper right). Hall's Shamrock Food market at the intersection of Helen avenue and Park avenue west is nearly completed (lower left) and workmen are digging the foundations for the new $135,000 boiler and laundry room for the Independent Towel and Supply company at the intersection of Grand street and Longview avenue.—(N-J photos)

Registrations For 'Y' Camp To Be Received This Week

Registrations for the annual summer season at Camp Nelson Dodd, YMCA camp, will open Monday, Ralph B. Chapman, associate general secretary, announced yesterday.

Sixteen boys can be taken care of during the first period which extends from June 20 through July 22, Chapman said. Registrations will be received for the first period at once, he said.

Camp Nelson Dodd, situated in the Mohican valley two miles from Brinkhaven, will be directed this year by Alvin R. Deiss, associate executive of the Ohio-West Virginia area of YMCA's, Chapman said yesterday. Deiss is now having the camp put into tip-top shape for the opening period. Everything is being done to meet new state health requirements, Chapman said. Deiss will have full charge during the summer season.

Chapman will have charge of registration. He will be assisted by Louis Jisa, chairman of the "Y" camp committee here.

Boys aged 10 years and over may register. If they are not members of the YMCA, an extra fee of $2 will be asked, in addition to the regular camp registration charge.

Rehearsal Off

There will be no rehearsal of the Junior Massed choirs today, as previously planned. Instead the group will rehearse Sunday, May 2, at 2:30 p. m. in the First Christian church, preceding the program to be given at 3:30 in observance of national music week.

Conservancy Court To Meet Friday

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch Saturday received notification of a meeting of the Muskingum Conservancy court at New Philadelphia next Friday.

Matters to be considered at the meeting include: Reappointment of E. D. Fritch, one of the directors of the district, or the appointment of a successor, and presentation and examination of the annual report of the board of directors of the district.

Place Estate Value At $42,000

Charles M. Zitzer, owner of Zitzer's Music store, who died March 21, left an estate estimated at $38,000 in real and $4,000 in personal property.

His will and the codocil to the will admitted to probate Saturday, provide for all property, except the music store, to go to his daughter, Gertrude.

The music store was left to his brother-in-law, Leo A. Yuncker. Attorney George W. Biddle was named executor of the estate.

2 Drivers Fined For Traffic Violations

John J. Eichinger, 505 North Mulberry street, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court yesterday for unsafe operation of a motor vehicle.

Donald Fleming, Mansfield, R. D. 5, was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Realtors Feel Increasing Buyer Resistance In City

Although the demand for homes remains as strong as it was last year an increasing buyer resistance to the high prices has been noted this year by Mansfield real estate agents

They report that the easy money and liberal credit of a year ago has been dissipated and that the average prospective home buyer wants to buy a home at a lower price than last year

The supply of homes is as large as it was last spring, but the sellers, who want more for their homes this year than last, are meeting more and more resistance

Many home owners who have bought houses since the end of the war and are now trying to sell them, want to get the same or a higher price than they paid

The realtors explained however, that persons who bought homes in the last few years paid a premium in most cases They did not balk at paying the extra price at the time because their desire to buy was very strong

The present day prospective home buyer having waited two and three years is not ready to pay the premium and is holding out for a 'bargain They have the attitude that 'we've waited this long, we can wait a little longer"

In effect, the price of homes on the real estate market is lower this year than last In terms of dollars and cents the prices are still the same, but viewed in light of the fact that prices of most things are higher this year than last the fact that the price of a house has not changed means that it has fallen slightly

The realtors emphasized that if you want a home and are willing to pay the price there are a great many available

Sex Criminal Electrocuted

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Kenneth Salter, whose sordid sex offenses led him to Ohio's electric chair, gave up his life with a gesture of decency Friday night

He left his eyes to "some worthy person." Yesterday they were en route to the New York City eye bank where they will —in Salter's words — "restore the priceless gift of vision to some one," preferably a war veteran.

The 31-year-old Toledo painter was put to death for the chloroform rape slaying of Barbara Dunn, 11 He admitted drugging the child so he could rape her, but denied any intent to kill

At the time of the slaying in June 1946 he was a parolee from Mansfield reformatory where he had served time for a sex offense

Salter was the 257th victim of the 51-year-old electric chair, Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis said

Leipzig Fair Subject Of New Issues

In honor of the great annual fair held in Leipzig, two new stamps are reported by Leon Monesson.

The 50 mark light and dark blue pictures the Customs Barrier, and the 84 mark light and dark green depicts workmen and merchants building the booths at the fair.

The traditions of the fairs of Leipzig date back centuries The main fair usually takes place in the huge market square of the city, and annually they have attracted merchants from all parts of Europe and Asia.

Michael Harrison in the London, England "News of the World" points out a significant aspect in the recent claims of South American countries to certain Antarctic territory Both sides of the controversy are using postal issues to help substantiate their claims

The Argentine Republic's claim to the Falkland Islands, the South Orkneys the South Shetlands, Graham land and South Georgia: Chile's claim to all these except the Falklands and Guatemala's claim to British Honduras was made by means of postage stamp designs.

The 1936 Argentine issue showed the Falklands shaded to match Argentina and a 1939 issue of Guatemala showed British Honduras as Guatemalan territory In 1947 both Chile and Argentina issued stamps depicting their Antarctic spheres of influence.

Mobile Dedicates Obelisk to Crew

MOBILE, Ala —(AP)— A simple white marble obelisk will be dedicated here today to nine Mobile men who built—and died in—the first submarine to sink a warship.

The submarine was the hand-powered Confederate ship, Hunley, built from a converted boiler to break the strangling Union blockade during the Civil war

Its only victim was the Federal sloop of war, "Housatonic," sunk off Charleston, S. C., Feb. 17, 1864. The Hunley and its crew of nine were lost in the attack.

Compared to modern undersea boats, the Hunley was a 25-foot cockleshell It sank three times and drowned 23 men before its final fatal mission.

The Hunley's propellor shaft was turned by hand cranks to give it a speed of four miles an hour—if wind and tide were right Its only weapon was a charge of powder on the end of a long spar fixed to the bow.

Officers navigated by peeping through glass portholes. Candles supplied light and used up precious oxygen. Escape hatches were a wistful fancy for the crew.

The Hunley cruised at a depth of three inches below the surface, but could submerge to a depth of six feet. It once remained under water over two hours without resurfacing.

But for all its crudity, the Hunley had every essential device of a modern submarine. A U S. Navy department report said "it is not too much to say that the H. L Hunley is the grandfather of the modern submarine."

The Confederates began experiments with submarines at New Orleans, but the Mississippi river city fell to Union troops and the project was moved to Mobile.

Under the direction of the inventor, Horace L. Hunley, and a bright machinist named W A. Alexander, the submarine was completed in the shop of Thomas W. Park and Thomas S. Lyons.

Legal Paper Gets 'Slangy'

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The 1,100 AFL drivers of the Yellow Cab company have a new contract in cabies' language. Legal wording is translated into "taximan's talk."

For example there's 'lost calls" persons who phone for a cab and then fail to show up. "Gas line" means the line of cabs waiting to have gas tanks refilled. "Hit the boxes" means that cabbies stop and call their stations.

"It's just plain taximan's talk," a cab official said. "We wanted all the drivers to be able to understand their new agreement."

COLLAPSE KILLS SIX

Sanatorium Tops County Projects

By GEORGE COMINOS

Topping Richland county's building and improvements program is the proposed five-story 84-bed tuberculosis sanatorium The structure will go up on a gift site southeast of Mansfield on State Route 39

Wheels set in motion for other county projects includes the possibilities of a new jail and detention home construction of a hospital at the county home and a slaughter house there remodeling of the fourth floor at the courthouse, and improvements there and at the county home

County commissioners have hired architects to make surveys and prepare estimates for three projects they have in mind As yet, the architects have not reported back their findings and estimates

Architect Charles W Conklin was hired to prepare a survey and estimates for a new county jail and detention home Grand juries for years have condemned the present structure

Although the original resolution called for a new jail John W Selby chairman of the board of county commissioners says the architect was instructed also to make a study of the old jail on the premise that it could be revamped

TO OPEN BIDS SOON

The TB building commission started readvertising for contract bids Tuesday The bids will be opened at noon May 19 Voters of Richland county have voted $700 000 in bonds to finance the proposed TB structure

A grant of $104 566 in federal aid to help equip the hospital as requested by the TB commission has received the approval of the state department of health Final approval or disapproval rests with the surgeon-general in Washington

Purpose of building a hospital at the county home grounds, Selby said, would be to care for the indigent ill instead of having to pay the cost of their care at private hospitals

That survey has been undertaken by Architect Harry J Brumenshenkel A hospital would be constructed on the grounds or an addition would be added to the county home as a hospital

Revamping of the fourth floor of the courthouse has as its intent to provide for additional office space and a large fire-proof vault The vault would house important records now in each office in most instances, unprotected from a heavy fire Vernon Redding associates are architects for the project

WOULD REDUCE RENTS

There would be added room to bring in county offices located away from the courthouse now requiring the payment of rent

Selby said revamping of the probate juvenile court offices to provide for a courtroom was in the 'thinking stage"

Commissioners have asked for bids from paint contractors for painting the buildings inside and out of the county home

They've also asked for bids from electrical contractors for the furnishing and installing of fluorescent lighting fixtures for five more courthouse offices—the offices of the treasurer, clerk of courts, board of elections, recorder and commissioners.

Although a resolution has been passed regarding construction of a slaughter house at the county home aimed to save the county thousands of dollars no architect has as yet been hired

Mansfield Children To Get New Schools

By MARGUERITE MILLER

A new Roseland school, a completed Western Avenue school addition and a fully-equipped football stadium will greet Mansfield children next fall, builders promise.

—Third of the projects now in progress, West Fifth school is expected to be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Helped out by favorable weather and easier-to-get materials the $150,000 Western avenue addition is in final stages of completion with hopes of getting the job done by sometime in May.

Harry J. Brumenshenkel, architect, said the finish plaster should be applied this week and that all finish flooring will be laid in the next 10 days. Plans call for asphalt tile floors in the classrooms and corridors and wood floor in the gymnasium-auditorium.

Heating plant for the addition has been added to the original system and is now in operation, Brumenshenkel said. The addition will, however, not be used by pupils until next term.

Tentatively scheduled for completion by the first of August are the Roseland school and Arlin field. Herbert S. Jones, architect for both projects reported work "progressing nicely."

"Two-thirds of the masonry work is completed on the Roseland school," Jones stated. "The outside must be completed by July 1 and we hope to finish up all work during July and August."

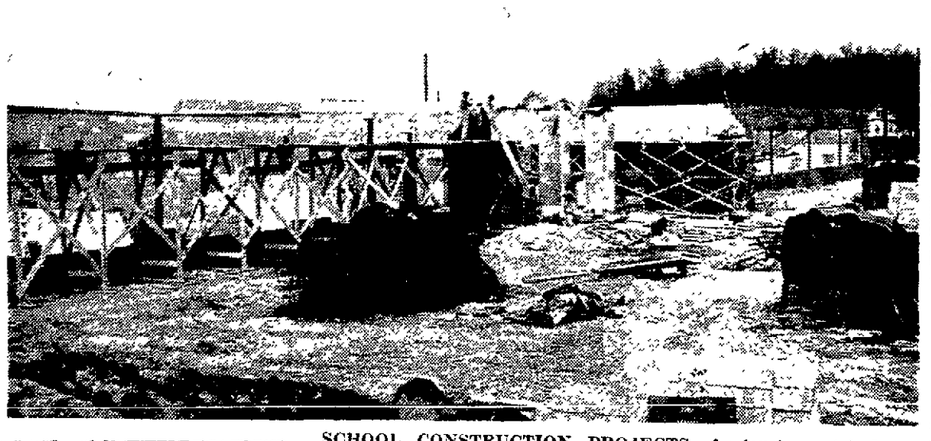
When completed, the $304,575 school will relieve much of the overcrowded condition at Hedges school, where many of the Roseland addition youngsters must now attend.

One of the most welcomed school projects in the city, Arlin field stadium will be brought up to 12,000-seat capacity with the addition of the south stands, where 4,000 seats are in process of being added. Also being finished at the plant are shower rooms and lockers for the home and visiting teams.

"If we get decent weather we'll be all set to finish the stadium on time," Jones said. "All the footers are in and they're pouring concrete and part of the columns now and are just about ready to pour the seats."

Lester Redding, of Vernon Redding and Associates, architect for the West Fifth school, said most of the excavation has been completed and foundations are being poured. The new school room section for the 17-room, $364,485 school will be completed before remodeling begins on the present school.

John H. Eisaman, clerk of the board of education, said architect's plans for the new Newman school, next on the list to be started, have not yet been completed.



SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS—Anxiously watched by Mansfield grown-ups and youngsters alike are these "priority" projects in the city's $2,011,000 school building program. Top photo shows the nearly completed addition to Western Avenue school, expected to be finished by late May. At bottom, work on the masonry work at the new Roseland building is shown. Builders expect to complete the school by August. Finishing up the excavation at West Fifth school, workmen are getting ready to pour foundations. This school is due for occupancy by next Christmas. $10,000 Damage Suit Settled

A suit for $10,000 was marked "settled and dismissed" yesterday in common pleas court. The suit had been brought by Peter D. Cone, Harpster, R. D. 1, against C. A. Friddell, 127 North Benton street.

He had charged that Friddell was negligent in his driving, forcing him (Cone) off U. S. Route 30-N on Sept. 29, 1946. Cone said he was severely injured and his car was demolished as a result.

Cone was represented by Attorneys Marshall C. Moore and Russell C. Price, and Friddell by Attorney F. J. Kvatek.

Fire Delays Train

CINCINNATI —(AP)— A small, but spectacular brush fire caused a short delay for a New York Central system passenger train near here last night. The fire threatened to destroy a small bridge over Mill creek before it was controlled, and for a time the structure was engulfed in smoke.

Chemical 'One-Two' Punch Gives Power to Penicillin

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A chemical variation of the old "one-two punch" of the prize fight ring offers hope of increasing the power of penicillin's wallop against disease germs.

Test-tube experiments employing penicillin in the presence of traces of cobalt chloride—a reddish chemical used in barometers and invisible inks—have shown that this combination enhances penicillin's power anywhere from two to four times.

That is, from two to four times more germs than usual were overcome with a given amount of penicillin. In other tests, it was found that a given quantity of germs could be checked with "one third or less" the amount of penicillin ordinarily required, depending on the germ tested.

The work was reported by three California researchers and they offered this tentative explanation for the unusual action:

The traces of cobalt stimulate the growth of the germs to a certain degree, altering their physiological condition so that they are more readily susceptible to the action of penicillin.

That is, the cobalt tends to "set up" the bugs for the follow-through action of penicillin—in much the same way that a jarring left to the head sometimes makes a fighter a soft touch for a hay-making right to the chin.

The experiments are reported in the forthcoming issue of the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical association.

The investigators are Doctors Louis A. Strait, Jean Dufrenoy and Robertson Pratt of the University of California college of pharmacy.

City At Last Has a Mayor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (AP) — This university city of 111,000 had a mayor today after a wearying marathon of 1,321 ballots taken at 35 meetings over a period of 15 weeks.

Tired members of the nine-man city council elected Councillor Michael J. Newville, 42-year-old lawyer, Friday night, but only after Councilman Edward A. Crane had run a good race.

Neville's election came after Crane admitted he had shot his bolt on the 1320th ballot and switched his vote to give the victor a 5-4 margin.

Citizens' Forum

Mansfielders Favor Hike In Sewer Rates

City Sanitary Engineer B. V. BeVier recently proposed an increase in city sewer rates to finance a 10-year sewer improvement program to cost $1,000,000.

He pointed out that the Mansfield minimum rate of $2 a year is one of the three lowest in the state. The average minimum in the state is $4 a year, according to BeVier.

Forum question this week was, "What do you think of Sanitary Engineer BeVier's increased sewer rates proposal and would you be willing to pay the increased rates?"

Generally Mansfielders seemed to favor the plan.

J. A. Morrison, 364 Fairlawn avenue. "As far as I'm concerned I'd be in favor of the program even though the charges were increased. Let's do anything to get Mansfield back in the shape it was before the war. Just about everything in the city seems to be very much rundown."

Morrison

★

Donald Reed, 170 Ford street. "Well, my home is up on high ground so we never have water in our basement in even the rainiest weather but the people who live in the lower sections of the city really get it bad. Seems like a lot of money but anything costs money these days. In a period of ten years damage done because of bad systems would amount to over a million dollars."

Reed

John Folk, 586 South Diamond street. "Sure, sure I'd be in favor of such a program. It's got to be done. There was water backed up in my basement during the heavy rains a couple of weeks ago and I didn't like it at all. It's the first time that's happened and I don't want it to happen anymore."

Folk

★

Carl Taugher, 172 West Fourth street. "I'm always in favor of improvements of that nature. I think it would be money well spent and most money for city improvements can be considered well spent. These systems must be maintained or they break down. A million dollars seems like a large figure but these systems must be maintained."

Taugher

★

Boyd Knofflock, 277 South Linden street. "I don't think I would favor a rate increase at this time. Everything costs so much now that it's hard for a man to keep out of the hole, and all these boosts here and there are going to make it just that much tougher. But I must say that the sewage system needs improvement. There isn't much question about that."

Knofflock

R F Dornbrack, R D 3, Mansfield "I think it's a good idea. In fact, anytime there's a chance for improvements of that sort it's a good idea. That doesn't seem like too much money these days. That investment over a ten year period would be replaced by increased business brought to the town. No one wants to come to a town that's poorly maintained."

Coal Royalty Plan Studied

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Mine operators talked yesterday of tossing the whole thorny problem of pensions for miners into the lap of Union Leader John L. Lewis.

An industry spokesman said operators are considering a plan under which they would pay Lewis' United Mine Workers 10 cents a ton on all coal mined—instead of paying it into a fund—and then let the union use the money as it sees fit.

The aim would be to remove all operator control over miners' pensions—and avoid disputes like the one which caused the six-week mine strike now ending.

The present contract, due to expire June 30, has piled up a $33,000,000 pension fund from a 10 cent tonnage royalty paid by the operators.

An agreement reached by two of the fund's trustees—Lewis for the miners and Senator Bridges (R-NH), neutral member would pay $100 monthly pensions to all miners over 62 years of age who retired since May 26, 1946 with more than 20 years in the pits.

The operators through Ezra Van Horn the industry trustee opposed that settlement. Van Horn has attacked the Bridges-Lewis agreement in court, arguing that the Taft-Hartley act would be violated if any payments are made without his signature.

Boy and Dog Rescue Ten From Blaze

ADDISON, Mich.—(AP)—Ten-year old Rodney Corbin and his pet dog teamed up yesterday to save his five younger brothers from their burning home at nearby Devils lake.

Rodney put the other children to bed about 8 p. m. Friday after his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Corbin, left for Detroit to visit a sick relative.

Shortly after midnight, the barking of his dog awakened the older boy. He smelled smoke and found the rear of the home ablaze. He awakened the other children and led them to safety. They were Doyle 8, Robert, 5, James, 4, and Larry and Gary, two-year-old twins.

Then Rodney returned to the home and brought out bedding and rugs which he used to cover his brothers on the front lawn. He then flagged a passing motorist who drove to a tavern and called firemen. A part of the building was saved.

Mansfield Plumbing Concern Employs Residential Director

In keeping with the general expansion program now under way at the Charles Hoffman company, Ralph C. Tisch, formerly divisional manager for the Pocahontas Fuel company in Cleveland, will join the local 68-year-old firm as director of its residential heating department.

According to Sales Manager Robert Black, Tisch comes highly recommended and is well qualified to handle all types of heating problems.

RALPH T. TISCH

Tisch was born and reared in Akron where he graduated from Central high school to enter the University of Akron. He later enrolled at Wayne university in Detroit where he specialized in engineering and also attended several heating trade schools and heating and engineering clinics.

He is a member of the National Association of Power Engineers. Employed by the Iron Fireman company for 12 years, he organized that company's Detroit sales work and then went to Pittsburgh where he was associated with the DeVoe company in charge of its residential, industrial heating and power equipment division. He was also industrial engineer with Iron Fireman covering the state of Michigan.

Skill Needed For Pruning

Proper Trimming Of Trees Urged

Mother Nature prunes trees growing in a forest so that they produce straight, knot-free lumber. The lower, shaded branches of forest trees die and drop off leaving long, straight trunks with a crown of branches at the top where the leaves can look up at the sun. The branch scars heal over and it is from these smooth trunks that knot-free boards are sawed.

The shade tree on the lawn also requires pruning but if this is left to Mother Nature, she may not choose to do it for the best interests of the property owner. She may take out the large, dead limb in the top of the tree and let it fall on the head of a child playing in the shade. It is best in the case of shade trees to prune before Nature takes its course.

Young trees often need some pruning to shape them properly and to direct their growth. Older trees are trimmed to remove dead or weak branches, to let in light, to open up vistas or views, to remove dangerous limbs and to give clearance for utility wires. Many times a lawn or flower garden is greatly improved by some wise pruning of nearby shade trees to allow more sun to get through.

Most anyone can saw a low branch from a tree if he can stand on the ground and do it. But not everyone can remove the branch and not injure the adjoining cambium, leave no stub, and paint the wound with a tree wound dressing to prevent rot starting at the wound. Even removing a low branch properly requires some skill and when it comes to removing branches from high in the tree, that is far too dangerous for the ordinary gardener or homeowner.

The arborist or shade tree expert is trained in the art of pruning trees. He knows how to make the cut and treat the wound so that it will heal over quickly. By the use of safety ropes he can climb to the highest part of a tree to remove a dead or undesirable branch.

Bright School Livens Pupils

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Stolp school in suburban Wilmette is right—and so, it seems, are the children.

The place has a new paint job. Walls are pale yellow, baby blue and other pastel hues. The blackboard is dark green and the chalk is yellow.

Of course, that makes the teacher's job a little harder." now," says Gordon Walker, an instructor. "There's no late afternoon letdown. The kids stay awake and always are ready for something. Holmes Road Damage Big MILLERSBURG — The nearly 4.5 inches of rain which fell last week caused $43,000 in damage to county roads and bridges.

County Engineer Karl Snyder said that 12 bridges were washed out and six others partially damaged. The latter have been repaired. Destruction of the bridges amounted to $17,000.

Roads and culverts were damaged in excess of $15,000. Snyder said the work of replacing the destroyed bridges and repairing damages probably would take all summer.

In the Pictures

With Mamas who are charter members of garden clubs the Mansfield offspring featured today are bound to be reg'lar little gardeners.

The picture at left brings to mind the old nursery rhyme about Mistress Mary—only this time the young Misses who are sprinkling the early hyacinths and other spring flowers are Patty and Joan Forrest, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Forrest, 36 Bartley avenue. Mrs. Forrest is treasurer of Mansfield's Mohican Garden club. Patty hurried home from Brinkerhoff school just in time to help little Joanie with that man-sized sprinkling can.

Heidi Princehorn's expression, as she studies her basketful of jonquils, at right, would indicate that she has a super idea for a special flower arrangement. Brother Peter lends a hand by cutting the blossoms for Heidi but he's checking up to see that he doesn't remove more flowers than she needs from the driveway border. The children's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. Hedges Princehorn, 197 North Linden road, and their mother is the vice president of the Mohican club.

Jimmy McConnell rests on his pint-size shovel for a time while Mom takes her turn at digging and planting (center picture) Mrs. James R. McConnell is a member of the Pleasant Valley Garden club for which she served on the program committee for this year. The McConnells live at 638 Sloane avenue.

The Pleasant Valley club is sponsored by Mansfield's Buckeye Garden club and the organization meeting was July 31, 1947, in the home of Mrs. John Finefrock jr, a member of the mother club. Other Buckeye members who have been active in organizing the new club are Mrs. Charles Spreng and Mrs. Deming Lowrey.

Beginning April 2 this year the club meets on alternate Fridays at 1 o'clock for luncheon. The season will close with a husband's party Oct. 15.

Mrs. Russell Beal is the representative to the Mansfield Garden Center and the other members attend the organization's meetings in alphabetical rotation There are 14 charter members.

Mrs. Huber's officers include Mrs. Richard Sturges, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Howard Ripper, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Paxton, treasurer.

Mansfield's newest garden club is the Mohican group. Mrs. J. A. Rice is its president and Mrs Ned Brooks, the secretary. Program chairman this year is Mrs William Daisley. There are 16 members.

DAR CHAPTERS ENTERTAIN WOMEN AT STATE MEETING

By DOROTHY MONROE

MANSFIELD Daughters of the American Revolution were hostesses this week end to 30 visiting ladies who were guests of the SAR at the 58th annual conference of the Ohio society.

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock the Jared Mansfield chapter, DAR, gave a tea for 65 local and visiting women. The affair was given in the clubroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Large arrangements of spring fruit blossoms, jonquils and daffodils were used throughout the room and on the hotel mezzanine.

At one end of the clubroom was a long tea table at which Mrs. H. L. Creveling, Jared Mansfield chapter's organizing regent and present Parliamentarian, and Mrs. J. Gale Idle, wife of the president of Constitution chapter, SAR, presided. The two women were appropriately attired in Revolutionary period costumes.

The table was centered with an attractive arrangement of pink and white snapdragons and on either side was a tall pink taper burning in a silver candleholder. Large trays of

BLUE STAR MOTHERS TO CONVENE HERE THURSDAY

FINAL PREPARATIONS are being completed for the fifth annual convention of the Blue Star Mothers of Ohio to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Two hundred and 50 delegates, representing 44 chapters throughout the state, are expected to attend. General arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Harry Constance, state department junior vice-president.

Forty will arrive Thursday for preliminary sessions. Mrs. Ruth Marriott of Toledo, general chairman of the Hospital Board of the State, will meet with the organization's board to discuss the needs of hospitalized veterans.

Ohio Blue Star Mothers serve in all government hospitals in the state directly through Special Service District No. 6 out of Columbus. Regular ward parties are held in these hospitals every two weeks, and refreshments, plays and entertainment is provided the veterans. Projectors and books, bedside tables, cards, toilet articles, Encyclopedia Brittanicas, and articles too numerous to mention have helped in the rehabilitation of veterans.

A meeting of the Chillicothe Hospital Memorial Board will be held previous to the Friday afternoon opening of convention,

Busy Week Ahead for Local Club Members and Brides

By OLIVE GRESMER, News-Journal Society Editor

IF YOU SEE women running madly during the next week, with hat in hand and skirts flying, it's because there's so much social activity in Mansfield that "mama" just won't be home. Pity the poor husband, but parties and plans must come first!

Study clubs are busy with preparations for their closing meetings and many women will be occupied with state conventions and arrangements for National Music week.

Final meeting of the season will be held Monday evening for members of the Mansfield chapter of the Wittenberg guild. This will be held at the St. Matthew's Lutheran church with Mrs Kenneth Pendleton as hostess. Another club meeting Monday for final session of the year will be the Victorian. This is scheduled for the Sky Club and will be a guest party. Mrs. Carl Russell and Mrs. R D. Campbell will serve as hostesses. Wilbur White, president of Toledo university, has been invited to be the guest speaker.

Monday Study club members are having their annual spring party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Monday evening to close their year's program. A dinner-bridge is scheduled with arrangements in charge of Miss Roselyn Mowry, chairman, assisted by Mrs. N. S. White and Mrs. Eugene Renwick.

Child Guidance club members will entertain their husbands at a party to be given Monday evening at Johns park pavilion. Mrs. Jack Craig and Mrs Charles Stockwell will be in charge of arrangements.

A Pollyanna party will be held Tuesday evening at the Happy Harry club rooms, Park avenue west, by members of the Rho chapter, Chi Sigma sorority. Mrs. John Carothers will serve as chairman. Zeta Rho chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, will hold formal initiation and a program at its meeting Tuesday. Tourist club members have scheduled a musicale for Tuesday at the Women's Club with Mrs. Frank Leavitt as hostess.

Mansfield Plumbing Concern Employs Residential Director

In keeping with the general expansion program now under way at the Charles Hoffman company, Ralph C. Tisch, formerly divisional manager for the Pocahontas Fuel company in Cleveland, will join the local 68-year-old firm as director of its residential heating department.

According to Sales Manager Robert Black, Tisch comes highly recommended and is well qualified to handle all types of heating problems.

RALPH T. TISCH

Tisch was born and reared in Akron where he graduated from Central high school to enter the University of Akron. He later enrolled at Wayne university in Detroit where he specialized in engineering and also attended several heating trade schools and heating and engineering clinics.

He is a member of the National Association of Power Engineers. Employed by the Iron Fireman company for 12 years, he organized that company's Detroit sales work and then went to Pittsburgh where he was associated with the DeVoe company in charge of its residential, industrial heating and power equipment division. He was also industrial engineer with Iron Fireman covering the state of Michigan.

Skill Needed For Pruning

Proper Trimming Of Trees Urged

Mother Nature prunes trees growing in a forest so that they produce straight, knot-free lumber The lower, shaded branches of forest trees die and drop off leaving long, straight trunks with a crown of branches at the top where the leaves can look up at the sun The branch scars heal over and it is from these smooth trunks that knot-free boards are sawed.

The shade tree on the lawn also requires pruning but if this is left to Mother Nature, she may not choose to do it for the best interests of the property owner. She may take out the large, dead limb in the top of the tree and let it fall on the head of a child playing in the shade. It is best in the case of shade trees to prune before Nature takes its course.

Young trees often need some pruning to shape them properly and to direct their growth. Older trees are trimmed to remove dead or weak branches, to let in light, to open up vistas or views, to remove dangerous limbs and to give clearance for utility wires. Many times a lawn or flower garden is greatly improved by some wise pruning of nearby shade trees to allow more sun to get through.

Most anyone can saw a low branch from a tree if he can stand on the ground and do it But not everyone can remove the branch and not injure the adjoining cambium leave no stub, and paint the wound with a tree wound dressing to prevent rot starting at the wound. Even removing a low branch properly requires some skill and when it comes to removing branches from high in the tree, that is far too dangerous for the ordinary gardener or homeowner

The arborist or shade tree expert is trained in the art of pruning trees. He knows how to make the cut and treat the wound so that it will heal over quickly. By the use of safety ropes he can climb to the highest part of a tree to remove a dead or undesirable branch

With Mamas who are charter members of garden clubs the Mansfield offspring featured today are bound to be reg'lar little gardeners.

The picture at left brings to mind the old nursery rhyme about Mistress Mary—only this time the young Misses who are sprinkling the early hyacinths and other spring flowers are Patty and Joan Forrest, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. T. F Forrest, 36 Bartley avenue. Mrs. Forrest is treasurer of Mansfield's Mohican Garden club. Patty hurried home from Brinkerhoff school just in time to help little Joanie with that man-sized sprinkling can.

Heidi Princehorn's expression, as she studies her basketful of jonquils, at right, would indicate that she has a super idea for a special flower arrangement. Brother Peter lends a hand by cutting the blossoms for Heidi but he's checking up to see that he doesn't remove more flowers than she needs from the driveway border. The children's parents are Mr. and Mrs H. Hedges Princehorn, 197 North Linden road, and their mother is the vice president of the Mohican club.

The Pleasant Valley club is sponsored by Mansfield's Buckeye Garden club and the organization meeting was July 31, 1947, in the home of Mrs. John Finefrock jr, a member of the mother club. Other Buckeye members who have been active in organizing the new club are Mrs. Charles Spreng and Mrs. Deming Lowrey.

Beginning April 2 this year the club meets on alternate Fridays at 1 o'clock for luncheon. The season will close with a husband's party Oct. 15

Mrs. Russell Beal is the representative to the Mansfield Garden Center and the other members attend the organization's meetings in alphabetical rotation There are 14 charter members.

Mrs. Huber's officers include Mrs. Richard Sturges, vice president and program chairman: Mrs. Howard Ripper, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Paxton, treasurer.

Mansfield's newest garden club is the Mohican group. Mrs. J. A. Rice is its president and Mrs. Ned Brooks, the secretary. Program chairman this year is Mrs William Daisley. There are 16 members.

Horoscope

For Sunday, April 25.

Sunday's horoscope offers a welcome respite from difficult and stubborn obstructions, with temperamental states of mind and exaggerated initiative, prone to enhance and complicate existing circumstances. Under such planetary auspices it may be advisable to divert the energies and faculties into channels for diversion and relaxation with lack of stress and strain, while abiding the time of stellar forces to bring about change of scene, new situations and developments, which beget fresh slants on crystallized situations.

A child born on this day may be disposed to take things by storm and passion, with loss of substantial progress and with grave reactions on its physical and social well being.

For Monday, April 26.

Monday's astrological forecast shows that some very special move of high strategy may be instrumental in breaking up old static and corrosive situations, which have failed to yield to any show of force, of rash or wild onslaught. This secret, subtle, even crafty effort to break up limitations and frustrations may be in the nature of a special skill, deep insight or perhaps a queer "hunch" or lead of intriguing or inexplicable aspect.

Those whose birthday it is, may enjoy a year of constructive progress, in which stubborn and static difficulties and obstacles are made to yield by clever strategies, unique tactics, shrewdly organized executed plans and policies. Intuition, hunches, hidden and secret urges and curious enlightenment, might break open congestions and defeat by subtlety, strategem or other form of secret or strange influence, seem to work from hidden sources. Be alert to weird contacts.

DAR Chapters Fete Visiting Women At 58th Conference

Guests were received by Mrs. John T. Shook, Jared Mansfield chapter regent, who introduced them to Mrs. A. Herbert Foreman, wife of the SAR President General of Norfolk, Va. Mrs. Earl B. Padgett, Galion, vice regent of the Ohio Society DAR; Mrs. Howard E. McClure, Jared Mansfield chapter first regent; Mrs. David N. Feiser, Mary Washington DAR chapter regent, and Mrs. Claude Phipps, representing Constitution chapter, SAR, as the wife of a member of the group, completed the receiving line at the tea.

Mrs. Foreman was attired in the "1948 Look" with her black, lace-trimmed tea frock with which she wore a gold hat with a large black feather at one side. Her accessories were black and she wore rhinestone jewelry. Her orchid corsage was a gift from the Jared Mansfield chapter, as were the flowers worn by other members of the receiving line.

Shades of light blue on a navy background were the colors of Mrs. Padget's dress. She complemented her costume with black accessories and a hat trimmed with pastel colored flowers. She wore a corsage of brilliant red roses.

Small lavender orchids in Mrs. Phipps' corsage complemented her navy dress on which were printed pink roses. Her accessories were black. Mrs. Feiser was wearing a red dress suit with a navy and white polka dot blouse and navy accessories. Her hat was trimmed with roses which matched her suit.

Mrs. Shook's two-piece dress was of a gray silk print and the crown of her hat was surrounded by large pastel colored flowers. Her shoulder corsage was an arrangement of pink and white shattered carnations. Mrs. McClure's tea dress featured a green and black figured waist and a black skirt. She wore a shoulder arrangement of mixed spring flowers.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the tea included Mrs. Robert W. Jones, retiring Jared Mansfield chapter regent, chairman, Mrs. McClure, Mrs. E. C. Tuttle, Mrs. Stanley A. Richardson, Miss Henrietta Frank and Mrs. Carl Henkel.

Special violin music was provided during the afternoon by Richard Eliot who was accompanied at the piano by his mother, Mrs. Paul Eliot.

Approximately 45 women attended the President General's Banquet Friday evening at the Leland hotel ballroom. The nine tables were decorated with small American flags and the elevated speakers' table was centered with a long, low arrangement of vari-cloored snapdragons and carnations, a gift from John Clark chapter, SAR, Canton. Another bouquet of carnations and snapdragons centered the large round table directly in front of the speakers' platform.

Lovely dinner gowns and a profusion of carnation, gardenia and rose corsages were in evidence at the banquet. The President General's wife was wearing a gown with a sequin-trimmed black top and a full gold colored skirt. With this she wore a rhinestone bracelet and earrings and her orchid corsage.

Mrs. Padgett, who was the evening's speaker for the Daughters, was wearing a low cut black floor length gown and her brooch and earrings were of rhinestones. She also wore her corsage of roses.

John T. Shook, retiring president of the Ohio Society, presided at the banquet and expressed appreciation to Jared Mansfield and Mary Washington chapters of the DAR for their gracious entertaining and for their cooperation with Constitution chapter and the Ohio Conference.

Mrs. Padgett, who returned early to Ohio from the DAR Continental Congress in Washington, D. C., to attend the meeting here, brought a message to the conference from the Daughters. She reported on the activities and progress of the Continental Congress.

She recalled a warning given by George Washington, "Put only Americans on guard." In regard to this Mrs. Padgett said, "While we don't claim to have all the true Americans in our organizations, de do have the nucleus of this group."

"There is power and strength in organization and especially in ours because the keynote of both groups is service," Mrs. Padgett explained.

In conclusion she told the SAR representatives that the Daughters are anxious to help their organization in any way possible and she expressed thanks to the conference group for its courteous attention to the lady guests.

Mrs. Val Isham played the dinner music on the piano and Solovox and accompanied the group singing which was directed by Dr. E. G. Hesser.

Glenn L. Bierly served as Conference general chairman and arrangements for the banquet and the Inaugural luncheon Saturday noon were made by W. E. Slabaugh jr., Robert M. Fichter and K. Eldon Johnson.

Saturday morning the members of Mary Washington chapter conducted a pilgrimage to points of interest near Mansfield. Twenty-one guests accompanied the members of the local chapters on the tour.

During the morning the group visited Pleasant Valley, Malabar Farm and the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs' Memorial near the entrance to Mohican State park. From there the women drove through the park and stopped at Charles Mill dam before returning to the hotel where they were guests of the SAR at the Inaugural luncheon.

Thirty-two visiting ladies were in attendance at the Conference. They were from Columbus, Lima, Cincinnati, Louisville, Ky., Cleveland, Dayton, Euclid, Crestline, Zanesville, Shaker Heights, Canton, Jefferson, Galion and Norfolk, Va.

Cucumbers Add Spring To Your New Salads

When you're buying your salad vegetables, bring spring a little nearer by including a cucumber. It's cool crispness in refreshing, and you can use it in so many ways. Diced cucumbers will enhance any green salad. Cut in strips, it may be eaten as a relish. Sliced, it can be served as one of the ingredients of a tossed salad or by itself with a sour cream dressing. Incidentally, a pretty way to make cucumber wheels for your relish dish or salad bowl is to score an unpared cucumber by drawing a fork down lengthwise and then slicing the cucumber.

Sliced cucumber sandwiches, with a little grated onion added to the mayonnaise or butter spread, are wonderful for tea, luncheon, or buffet supper.

And an excellent sauce for your fish steaks or fillets this Lenten season may be made from grated cucumber, this way:

CUCUMBER SAUCE FOR FISH

Salt, pepper
½ cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons vinegar

Pare and chop the cucumber. Season it. Beat the cream until thick but not stiff. Add vinegar to the cream while beating constantly. Fold in the cucumber.

Candidates Head Into Final Week

Democrats Offer Principal Contests

BUCYRUS — Chief interest in Crawford county's political campaign as candidates go into the final stretch is centered about the Democratic contests for nominations for county commissioner and county treasurer.

Also of paramount interest in the county and other counties of the Eighth congressional district is the campaign for nomination of a congressional representative with two candidates seeking favor in each party.

GOP Incumbent Frederick C. Smith of Marion has as his opponent a fellow townsman, Robert T. Mason, and the two Democratic candidates are John T. Siemon and Andrew T. Durbin, both of Hardin county.

In one county contests, five Democratic candidates are seeking the two nominations for county commissioner, among whom are the two incumbents, Walter Sargel and Lawrence Heinlen. Other candidates are J. C. Hull, Frank Mauler and Roy Eichorn.

The other county contest is for county treasurer; incumbent Mae Kloepfer finding opposition this year in her party in the person of Clinton Kiess of Bucyrus.

Four unopposed Democratic candidates are assured of election in the fall unless write-in candidates should produce the necessary 15 per cent vote to earn a place on the November ballot.

Unopposed are Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl, Clerk of Courts Joe Royer, County Engineer Howard V. Horner and Coroner O. R. Kackley, all Democrats.

Opposition to Constance R Keller, probate judge, who is a candidate for re-election, was assured in the November election with announcement of the candidacy of Attorney O. K. Bender on the non-partisan ticket. Judge Keller, a Democrat, has no opposition in the primary. There are no Republican candidates for the office.

Ask Bang's Disease Test

MILLERSBURG—Monroe township has joined the list of townships requesting testing of cattle for bang's disease on an area basis. This is the fifth township to request the test. Others are Hardy, Killbuck, Knox and Walnut Creek which is now being tested.

Petitions have been mailed to the office of State Veterinarian, Dr. Harry Geyser, for approval.

Sixty-seven herd owners, owning 761 cattle, signed the petition. They represent 71 per cent of the herd owners, owning 85.2 per cent of the cattle.

County Agent S. M. McIntosh reports completion of testing of cattle for tuberculosis in Washington township with no reactors found. A total of 110 herds, comprising 1,415 head of cattle, were tested.

Iberia Schools Get Superintendent

MT. GILEAD — Preston Burggraf has been given a two-year contract as superintendent of the Iberia schools.

He will succeed E. E. Bowman who resigned because of ill health but will continue as an instructor.

Burggraf received an A.B. degree from Ashland college in 1946 after serving in the army for three years. A native of Iberia he graduated from the Iberia high school with the class of 1938.

For the past two years he has been teaching at the Johnsville schools. He plans to attend Ohio State university during the summer quarter, where he will take an administrative course.

ONTARIO — Springfield township Boosters club will hold a special meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Ontario high school cafeteria.

Time for Council's Annual Problem

Ashland Opera House Is City Headache

By VIRGINIA LEEDS, N-J State Correspondent

ASHLAND--Ashland's perennial problem of what to do with that tired old lady, the Ashland Opera House, is giving the new city council bad dreams.

The city fathers know the subject must be handled in the near future and the recent hot potato, the change to fast time, from which they are still sizzling, is a mere nothing to what confronts them in the Opera House problem.

Tear it down? The mere mention brings coals of fire upon the heads of any councilman daring to breathe it. The old-timers recall the famous names which trod the boards of the Opera House stage after its erection in 188?, the civic and patriotic meetings held there.

A modern structure on the site of the city's most historic old building? "No," they say. They'll fight it to their dying day.

Sell it to the highest bidder? Again the protests have worn down earlier councils. Bids have been received, as high as $62,200, but quickly tabled under the violent protests of John Q. Citizen.

MONEY IS PUZZLE

Tear it down and build a new municipal building to replace the outmoded and crowded quarters on a side street? Many approve, but nobody can answer the age-old question, "Where will we get the money?" Recent passage of a $400,000 school bond issue and a $400,000 waterworks bond issue upsets any idea of further immediate bond issues for civic improvements.

Mayor Louis B. Mansfield tried to get some ideas at the opening of his administration in January by sending out letters to all civic and patriotic organizations and many individuals asking what to do. There were as many opinions as there were answering letters.

Perhaps the most practical plan came from the directors of the Ashland chamber of commerce. They recommended adoption of a suitable building code for the business district before disposal of the building. This, the directors pointed out, would prevent construction of a cheap and unattractive building on the most prominent site in the business section.

PRIDE OF ASHLAND IN '82

The three-story brick and stone structure was the pride of Ashland back in 1882 when it was opened to the public. It was built at a cost of $26,000. Fire necessitated some rebuilding in 1903, but from then on the old lady had sweet sailing.

In the early 1920's, the theater became a movie house, with the city receiving as much as $800 monthly rental. The American Legion leased the third flood for clubrooms and the library expanded throughout the second floor. The water works and a small store occupied the first floor.

In 1940, sagging at the seams and bulging in all the wrong places, the Opera House met up with the inspectors of the state department of industrial relations, division of factory and building inspection, and the news was bad. The department ordered 15 repair items, some of them large, within a 45-day period.

GALLERY CONDEMNED

It had condemned the gallery section of the theater five years earlier. Now it condemned the whole theater, the third-floor rooms and ordered basement rooms abandoned by the relief office unless repairs were made.

After considering the cost of repairs, a committee of appointed citizens recommended that the building be replaced with a new city building financed by a bond issue.

All this time, city offices continued on a side street structure that is still used. The repairs would cost too much, council decided, and closed the theater and third floor room, but made repairs to allow the library to remain on the second floor.

APPROVE BONDS

Then, at the 1940 November election, Ashland voters approved a $230,000 bond issue to construct a new building for city offices, library and theater on the site. The election was a hard-fought one, but the winners thought everything was settled by their victory.

However, Ashland county common pleas court ruled the city could not build and maintain a theater to lease to a private enterprise in competition with similar enterprises for revenue purposes. No appeal was made of the decision.

More recently bids have been sought by councils for selling the building. First bids were determined too low and all were rejected. Last year council tried again. Highest bid was over $62,000 from an out-of-town bidder. While council was pondering over this, members were besieged by irate citizens demanding the old building not be sold to out-of-towners who might build any old kind of structure on the site. Council gave up.

LIBRARY DELAYED

Housing of the library in the old structure constitutes the main reason for the problem confronting council. A bond issue for construction of a new library was approved several years ago and a site on Claremont avenue purchased, but rising costs have prevented going ahead, so the library has no place to go outside its present crowded quarters.

Tear down the Opera House and set the library out on the street? That in itself brings library lovers by the dozens scurrying to council meetings every time the Opera House comes up for discussion.

Meantime, the tired, gray, old Opera House slumps on its downtown corner, dirty, almost useless, with pigeons using the rooftop and upper windows for a resting place. The waterworks offices still occupy the corner room, the library the second floor and a gift shop the only uncondemned store room. The rest yawns emptily.

The old lady is living on borrowed time.

'Tired Old Lady.'

Outbreak of Deadly Cattle Disease Feared By Farmers

COLUMBUS — Livestock raisers throughout the nation were alerted today to the growing danger of a deadly blood disease of cattle, anaplasmosis, which strikes during the spring and summer months.

"Anaplasmosis has now invaded the northern states as well as the south and west," the American Foundation for Animal Health reported. "Now no section and no climate is safe."

"In one recent outbreak, cattle had been shipped in as feeders. Later, they had been dehorned. Apparently the original shipment had included one animal infected with anaplamosis. The infection had been spread through the herd by the dehorning operation."

Long a problem in the states with mild climates, anaplasmosis is most commonly spread by biting insects or by the careless use of dehorning and other surgical instruments, it was explained.

"If cattle develop anemia, depression or other symptoms of anaplasmosis, a prompt diagnosis is essential," the Foundation said.

"Careful examination, perhaps followed by blood tests, is necessary in order to distinguish this trouble from more common cattle diseases such as anthrax, milk fever, blackleg and poisoning."

Benedictine Friar Recalls 'Evil Eye' Of 'Mystic' Hitler

By TOM REEDY

MUNICH, Germany—(AP)—Fifteen years ago a sharp-eyed little man with a comical mustache became chancellor of Germany.

This Adolf Hitler emerged from obscurity, plunged the world into holocaust, then disappeared in the ruins of Berlin. To some ardent Nazi followers Hitler still lives in spirit a great man. To some who knew him personally over the years, the story is different.

A man alive today in Bavaria, where the Nazi party was born, has first-hand knowledge of Hitler. He met him in an opera house, was horrified at the malignant look in the man's eyes.

Father Hugo Lang, stout, cheerful Benedictine friar, remembers well the shock of seeing Hitler the first time many years ago in the Prinz Regenten opera house in Munich.

"He was with two women—always he was with women," said the monk, now peacefully writing the memoirs of a life of intellectual study. "I have never seen such evil in a man's eyes."

Twenty years later, in 1944, the Gestapo brought its campaign against the church to the door of Father Lang's monastery.

"My friends faded away as soon as they heard about the 'visit'," Father Lang said, then chuckled:

"I had a long year of peaceful solitude. No one would have anything to do with me."

CLAIMS HITLER INSANE

Over that span of 20 years, the priest picked up a wealth of information about Hitler. Some is astonishing. Most of it came from conversations with other priests, mostly Austrians from the area where Hitler sprang.

"When he was 16 years old he was insane," Father Lang said. "He was in an insane asylum. When he went to Vienna he was no good at any job. He wasn't even a good paperhanger. He was always being fired because he was an agitator.

"In Vienna he was a procurer. That is a fact and it was so listed in the Vienna police records. For two years of that time he also was a spy for the police. This was from 1910 to 1912."

Such a background explains a startling incident.

"After Hitler came to power," the monk said, "he set out to erase systematically any connection with the past. He knew he had to be mystic to be a leader because he had nothing else. I have it on the very best authority that he destroyed four entire villages in the Waldviertel in northern Austria one month after the Anschluss in 1938 as part of this campaign."

The villages comprised a 20 kilometer square area where the Hitler forebears originated.

RAZES ENTIRE AREA

Hitler sent the infamous Reinhard Heydrich, organizer of the Gestapo, into the area with a battalion of cannon. The inhabitants were moved. The houses were razed by shellfire. The ground was plowed under and planted with grass. "It is a desert now," said Father Lang.

Before the first World War, Hitler came to Munich.

"Hitler worked for a tailor near the church where I was assigned at the time. I used to see him daily. He would carry beer for the friends of the tailor as they played cards. He would get a free one for the chore. He liked his beer then. He painted some small greeting cards and sold them in the street.

"Hitler got acquainted with some intellectuals and joined their discussion groups. The women adored him always. At that time Hitler was a communist. In these roundtable discussions he always was in the back seat. In fact his number was 13, although later he always tried to say it was number seven. From that roundtable grew the Nazi party.

"Hitler's best support then came from Wilhelm Frick, (hanged at Nuernberg). Frick won the support of Police President Poehner of Bavaria. Later on, Poehner was murdered by the Nazis.

"Field Marshal Ludendorff thought he could control Hitler. He never swallowed Hitler as a god. Over his house was a sign that said: 'In this house, Heil Hitler will not be given'.

RACKED BY DISEASE

"It was then that Hitler became an anti-Catholic. He needed a level beyond the common people to increase his stature. And he was increasingly a madman.

"Doctors told me then that Hitler was in the advanced stage of a man who either inherited or contracted syphilis and had taken what we called then the 'malaria cure.' To hide his illness, he often used rouge so that he had a fresh blown healthy color. He had a child then, too. The mother was a sister of a Capuchin priest in Munich."

Father Lang recalled Hitler's abortive putsch in Munich in November 25 years ago.

"He came into the Buergerbrau Keller at a meeting of all parties. He fired a shot into the ceiling and the next words he spoke were 'Bring me a beer.' He marched his followers down to the Feldhern halle and they started the shooting. The Bavarian police fired back. Sixteen of Hitler's men went down. What isn't remembered usually is that 20 policemen were killed, too.'

One of the 16 Nazis that Hitler glorified later with a special monument was a waiter who stepped out of his cafe to see what was going on. One was a Jewish judge who fell dead of a heart attack in the excitement. The others were criminals of the worst sort.

The priest said Hitler fled from the scene and was missing for a day. The police found him hiding beneath a bed in the home of Ernst (Putzi) Hanfstaengl.

Poet Studies Famed Talk

Santayana Ponders Lincoln's Meaning

By FRANK O'BRIEN

ROME —(AP)— George Santayana, aged poet, philosopher, teacher and novelist, wonders whether the real meaning of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address is known.

The question — A subtle one probing for what exactly was in the great President's mind—arises in connection with what Santayana calls his final book, a task in political philosophy at which he thinks death may overtake him. He is 84.

The philosopher charges much of the world's troubles to a lack of great men. "There are no great men today," he said in an interview. "Napoleon was a great man."

Stalin, he thinks, comes as near as any today to being truly great.

The world is moving toward the "universal state" of A. J. Toynbee's "Study of History," Santayana thinks, and says that the "most probable" ruler is Soviet Russia.

"It will be either Russia, the United States or the United Nations."

LIVES IN ROME

For 23 years Santayana has lived in Rome, close to the seat of the Roman Catholic church, whose culture he has always felt necessary to his tranquillity. He goes to church, but is not a formally practicing Catholic. Since 1942 he has lived in the hospice of the Sisters of the Little Company of Mary, a British order of nuns, in the grounds of an old church near the center of ancient Rome.

At home in a city which symbolizes the past, Santayana is at ease. Often thought of as an American, Madrid-born Santayana remained legally Spanish and spiritually Latin through boyhood in Boston and education and 22 years of teaching at Harvard university.

In sounding relations between the governed and governments, Santayana found Lincoln's famed phrase, "Government of the people, by the people and for the people," apt to illustrate different aspects of government.

But he is wondering if Lincoln had in mind three, as generally supposed, or two qualities of government whether Lincoln paused after he said "government," as do orators declaiming the Gettysburg address, or whether he said "government of the people" without pause. In standard printed versions of the address taken from Lincoln's hand-written copies, it is written without a comma to indicate a pause.

Santayana thinks Lincoln probably meant and said it without the pause.

"That would indicate Lincoln only meant to say the people should be governed, and that the government should be by the people and for the people—not that there should be a government of, by and, for the people. Then the questions arise: Who is the people, and for what should they be governed?"

LIONS OFFICIAL DIES

MOUNT VERNON (AP) — Clarence Jenkins, 61, a field secretary for Lions International, died Friday night.

Behind Scenes With 'Players'

EVERYONE GETS INTO THE ACT—Just as important behind the scenes as behind the footlights are the scores of men and women who have donated their time and effort to the Community Players. Youngest contribution to a Players' production is the youthful chorus from the Children's Theater. In top photo, left to right, are: Mrs. Bonar, Susie Hout, Penny Schettler, Molly Maxwell, Susie Wolfe, Judy Maxwell, Sally Hout and Christine Fernyak. One of the most valuable committees to a production of a play is the property committee, middle photo. Left to right: Mrs. J. P. White, Mrs. George French, leaning over chair, Mrs. Howard Clark, chairman, Mrs. Marion Cruickshank and Miss Shirley Anson. The correct apparel for the leading lady, Mrs. Roberta Monahan, standing at left, is pondered by Mrs. Robert L. Ross, while in conference with Mrs. Helen M. Bacon, seated at left, director of the play. Standing behind chair are other members of the committee, Mrs. V. C. Phelps and Mrs. Jules Frankel, at right.

Measles Fail to Stop Show

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Not even the measles has been able to stop the show.

"The Return of Peter Grimm," first drama venture by the Mansfield Community Players in the past 10 years goes on the boards Tuesday and Wednesday at John Simpson auditorium.

And the measles victim? He'll be there. Eleven-year-old Ronald Smith has had a heap of time to do some honest-to-goodness work on those lines of his in the last two weeks.

The handsome lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith, 566 Highland avenue, has one of the major roles in the play. And all reports have it that those lines are "letter perfect."

Both Mrs. Helen Bacon, director of the play, and H. H. "Herb" Schettler, who plays the title role, have had private sessions with Ronald who stands a very good chance of stealing a few hearts in the audience with his interpretation of the waif, William.

Ronald came out of quarantine last Thursday just in time for the final polishing and dress rehearsals.

"The Return" will wind up the first full season for the players since before the war and will round out one of a few balanced programs of comedy, mystery and drama, attempted by the city's oldest amateur group. "Dear Ruth" and "Ten Little Indians" were the comedy and mystery, respectively, staged during the 21st season.

Neither laugh nor tear provoking, "The Return of Peter Grimm" is a masterfully written drama from the pen of David Belasco, neither too heavy nor light, but with just enough pathos to hold the atmosphere and just enough humor to lighten the plot.

It concerns a self-disciplined skeptic (Peter Grimm) and a devoted friend, Dr. McPherson (played by Richard Airhart) who believes in spiritualism. When Grimm becomes seriously ill, the two men make a pact that if Peter dies first he will come back and apologize for not believing.

As it turns out Grimm not only apologizes but sees he must untangle the marriage between his ward, Catherine (played by Mrs. Roberta Monahan) and his nephew, Frederick (played by Don Fatkin) which he demanded during life.

Others in the cast, all with prominent supporting roles are: Jack Schettler as James, secretary to Grimm; Harold McCuen as Col. Lawton, Grimm's lawyer; Mrs. Dorothea Dillon as Marta, Grimm's servant from Holland; Mrs. Maxine Bonar as Mrs. Batholommey, Burns Katenburg as Rev. Batholommey and Gene Gump as the Clown.

Curtain time for both nights of production is 8:15 p. m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any member of the players. Season ticket holders are not required to exchange their ticket for the night preferred.

Draft, UMT Seen Needed For Defense

Recruiting Drives Fail to Meet Need

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army's recruiting drive has been an unprecedented success. Yet, to suit the Army, it has not been successful enough.

Even the most high-priced ballyhoo and the most tireless and determined oratory and doorbell ringing can't get enough volunteers to bring our ground forces up to authorized strength.

The Army has congressional authorization and funds for 670,000 men, but it has been able to get only 542,000. Secretary of the Army Royall told Congress recently, moreover, that "we cannot hope to hold our present 542,000 figure over the months immediately ahead." The ground forces estimate they will lose 240,000 men in the coming year through expiration of enlistments.

Since they want not only to keep up present strength but also to bring the Army to a total of 782,000 to fill what they set as the nation's minimum security needs, they have proposed that selective service be restored on a temporary basis.

Through that the Army hopes to induct 200,000 men before March 1, 1949. With an expected 280,000 voluntary enlistments and reenlistments, the Army figures it can reach 782,000 by that date.

(These are the manpower goals proposed by the defense chiefs. Congress may alter them before it passed a draft law.)

MANPOWER NEEDED

The Air Force and Navy up to now have been able to get by voluntary enlistments all the men they had funds for. But they say they too are direly in need of additional manpower and that they doubt that they could bring them in voluntarily on a larger scale that at present.

Besides, the threat of selective service has proved a strong inducement for potential selectees to enlist. So the Air Force and Navy too have asked for selective service.

All three of the services, are as interested in enactment of universal military training (UMT) as in selective service. Through UMT, they say, they can fill the vacancies in their reserve components. After six months of basic training, UMT men would have the option of joining one of the reserve units, like the National Guard.

As for the recruiting drive, Secretary Royall has said: "The Army has had a remarkable enlistment record . . . All three of the departments have established an all-time record for voluntary enlistments in this or any other nation."

Since selective service was abandoned in October 1946, the Army and Air Forces have recruited 732,981 men from civil life. In addition 686,796 men have reenlisted.

The Army and Air Force had 8,295 officers and enlisted men on recruiting duty, Secretary of Defense Forrestal has told the senate armed services committee. They also used 1,103 civilian employes in recruiting.

RECRUITING COSTLY

The two services spent $35,520,730 on recruiting in the 12 months ending June 30, 1947. They expect to spend $25,718,000 in the current 12 months. The Navy is spending about $7,000,000 this fiscal year; last year its recruiting cost about $17,000,000.

These recruiting expenditures include a huge contract with a private publicity firm. Other costs have been pay and allowances and travel expenses of recruiting personnel, office rentals, operation of motor vehicles and transportation of recruits.

If selective service is enacted, here's how the departments propose to build up their regular forces by March 1, 1949.

Army, from 542,000 to 782,000.

Marine Corps (part of Navy), from 81,000 to 92,000.

Air force, from 364,500 to 400,000.

Total armed forces, from 1,384,500 to 4,734,000.

Under the present UMT proposal, 850,000 men would be trained each year. For this work the army estimates it would need an additional 95,000 officers and enlisted men. The Navy says it would need an additional 35,000.

ARMY LISTS MOST

The 850,000 men would be divided thus for training among each of the services: 432,000 to the Army, 232,000 to the Navy, 186,000 to the Air Force.

Here are some figures on the present state of the various reserve units, to show why the dedense chiefs say UMT is essential:

The National Guard has only 230,000 men, and its program calls for 650,000. Secretary Royall says "Our National Guard has a skeleton organization, and 80 per cent of its members have had no real military training."

The Army's organized reserves have 35,000, but its program calls for 505,000.

The Navy plans for an air reserve of 49,754 trained and organized officers and enlisted men, but it is short 28,067. Its organized reserve (non-flying sailors) programs 223,767 trained men and officers but lacks 61,673 of its quota.

The Navy's volunteer reserve, composed primarily of veterans who simply sign up but do not train, plans for 951,233 officers and enlisted personnel. It is short 263,859, and these are all enlisted men. The Navy now has more officers in the volunteer reserve than its quota requires.

MARINE CORPS SHORT

The Marine Corps is 9,052 short of the 41,489 organized reserves it hopes to get.

The position of the air national guard and air reserve programs "is one of grave concern to us," says Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of staff of the air force.

League-Leading Clevelanders Trip Detroit, 4-1

Senior High Wins Urichsville Relays

Gordon, Doby Star At Plate

DETROIT —(AP)— Bob Feller threw a five-hitter at the Detroit Tigers yesterday for his second victory of the season, keeping the Cleveland Indians on the unbeaten warpath with their third straight win, 4 to 1.

Feller, who fanned six men and had a three-hit shutout into the ninth, ran his streak of scoreless pitching to 17 innings before the Tigers scored their lone run after two men were out in their last turn at bat.

SCORES TWO ON ONE

Detroit sophomore righthander, Art Houtteman, blanked the Tribe for five innings but fell behind in the sixth when Cleveland scored twice with just one hit.

Thurman Tucker was safe on First Baseman George Vico's error and Larry Doby, Cleveland's Negro outfielder, was struck on the left knee by a pitched ball. Manager Lou Boudreau sacrificed them into position for both to score on the second of Joe Gordon's three singles.

Hits by Doby and Gordon led to Cleveland's third run off Houtteman in the eighth and Allie Clark's double and Ken Keltner's single helped produce the fourth one off Stubby Overmire, who pitched the ninth.

COUNTS ON FLY

With one out in the Tiger ninth George Kell singled off Boudreau's glove, raced to third on Vic Wertz's single to right and scored after Hoot Evers' fly.

The Tigers got only two other men as far as second and one more to third. In both of those instances Feller blazed a third strike across for the last out of the inning.

A crowd of 41,655 fans sat out a fourth inning shower that held up play for more than 30 minutes.

Six Softball Clubs To Form Strong League

A strong Inter-City softball league of six teams will be organized in Mansfield Tuesday night, J. C. Gorman announced last night. The meeting will be held at the Gorman-Rupp plant.

Gorman-Rupp, which had one of the strongest teams in the district in 1947, will represent Mansfield. Other towns which will be represented at the meeting include Ashland, Wooster, Marion, Mt. Vernon and Willard.

ALL HAVE LIGHTS

All six teams have lighted parks and one league game will be played each week, starting some time in May.

★

The Gorman-Rupp team will play three night games a week, at least two of them on the G-R field. The G-R field is Mansfield's only lighted softball plant and the seating capacity will be increased to 2,000 this year.

In addition to league games, some of the state's strongest independent teams will be booked into Mansfield. Nick Weber will manage the Gorman-Rupp team again this season.

Some Senior High Spring Football Facts; Open Letter

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

SENIOR HIGH'S first spring football practice in several years was a success, so says Augie Morningstar, who is completing his first year at the helm of the Tyger athletic program. . . . Of course, Augie had to get along without the services of several of his top stars who spent most of the spring with the track team. . . . However, that worked out swell. . . . With several of the gridders competing, the track and field squad has romped to three easy dual meet victories and yesterday surprised with a win in the tough Urichsville relays. . . . Then too it gave Morningstar and his assistants—Fred Staub and Mike Byelene—a chance to spend more time on the junior high lads who will be battling for places on the 1948 varsity and sophomore squads. . . . The Tygers came out of the drills with only two injuries. . . . Harry Osbun, star back, suffered an ankle injury and had to have an operation and Art Hartig, freshman back, got a broken bone in his right ankle. . . . Osbun is back in school on crutches. . . . We asked Morningstar what he thought about the Tygers' 1948 chances. . . . He wouldn't commit himself but did say, "It's too early to say how we will be next fall but we will have a scrappy club. We're anxious to see 'em all on the field at once so we can choose the starting team. We accomplished a good deal on fundamentals and the kids got a lot of experience under actual scrimmage conditions. Three lads—Tom Weaver, Ken Carver and Bob Bush—will push some of the regulars next fall. We shifted Weaver to guard, Carver is an end and Bush a tackle. Bush will be a big boy next fall. Right now he is 6-2 and weighs 185."

FROM THE MAIL BAG:

Dear Fred:

I sincerely hope this little form of contribution of mine will be justly taken into consideration by all the persons who have so graciously in the past taken a part in the sports activities of our schools. With the organization of the Tyger Booster club of Mansfield Senior high, one of the first and greatest steps of bringing the public a little closer to realizing the entire sports activities has taken place.

The harmony of every athletic unit in the school is due to a smoothly functioning group of coaches, managers and students.

For the past three years the "infant" Tyger club has tried its best to cover all sports programs in every way possible. To say the least, that a big job has been well done, would be a small thing. Every organization, every industry, every club and every individual taking part in this program has willingly taken an active step in putting it across.

The records of our Tyger club show a complete and thorough success in every deal that was undertaken.

With the coming football season, which is next on the sports program, we find the Tyger club already at work trying to set up a new and very interesting group of events that will be necessary in a highly successful football season.

Our new and popular coach, Augie Morningstar, and his entire staff are more than willing to start the city to the top, where we should be, in the growing Sports Spotlight of Ohio.

I firmly believe with the present set-up in which we find ourselves, namely, a new and spacious stadium, one of the top coaching staffs for Ohio high schools, a fundamental system of sports activities in all schools, a well organized booster club, a very ambitious group of athletes and a great industrial and civic minded body of people, we cannot and must not let this opportunity pass us by. We have a good thing in our possession and we should do all we can to keep it.

How?

I do not believe I am very well qualified or able at this time to tell you, or even ask you. Every person can pick out the mistakes and faults by being an interested spectator on the sidelines. In this game, however, we want everybody to take part in the battle and have no one left for second guessing or criticism. I would like to see a record membership in the Tyger club, a regular record attendance at every booster meeting before each game and the attendance of our football games at Arlin field will be an automatic record every Friday night.

With a regular interest of such enthusiasm that can be shown by the people of Mansfield for our boys, every individual can reasonably stand up and proudly say "I took a part in that." Fundamental preparation is the greatest asset for our youth.

Sincerely yours,
PETE ZEIDES JR.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— The Washington Senators nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics 3-2 yesterday for their fourth consecutive victory as Early Wynn outpitched Phil Marchildon.

The A's outhit the Senators 10-7 but Wynn staved off trouble in every inning except the second. Hank Majeski opened the Philadelphia half of that frame with a homer. Sam Chapman socked a double and came home on an infield out and Marchildon's single. The only Philadelphia hit after the fourth inning was Barney McCosky's triple in the seventh.

The Senators got the winning run in the seventh when Gil Coan's sharp rap to center field scored Al Evans from second base.

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— The renovated St. Louis Browns opened their 1948 home stand by defeating the Chicago White Sox 6-4 yesterday with Chuck Stevens hitting a home run in the first inning with a man on base.

Derby Field Cut To Seven

LOUISVILLE —(AP)— Next Saturday's Kentucky Derby probably will have only seven starters.

This became evident yesterday after trainers of several Derby hopefuls said their steeds definitely would not run.

If only seven horses go to the post for the $100,000 added race, it would be the smallest field since 1914 when Old Rosebud won the "Run for the Roses" against six other thoroughbreds. Before that time, there were several Derbies in which less than seven horses ran.

Here's the way this year's field shapes up: Citation, Coaltown, My Request, Escadru, Billings, Grandpere and Galedo.

Prospect Practice

The Prospect park softball team will hold its first practice session tomorrow night on its home field at 5:30. All Prospect area lads under 18 can try for the team. Conrad Niedhammer is the manager.

Harrison Dillard Stars In Classy Drake Relays

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

DES MOINES—(AP)—Harrison Dillard, America's greatest hurdler, yesterday raced to his 55th consecutive victory to become the outstanding individual performer of the 39th Drake Relays.

Dillard, who Friday sparked Baldwin-Wallace college to a new meet record in the college half-mile relay, tied his own Drake record in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Altogether three college records were broken and one tied in the two-day meet. Seven new high school marks wre set.

Lee Hofacare of Minnesota blotted out a 10-year-old Drake record for the 440-yard hurdle race by skimming the barriers in 52.7 seconds. This erased the old mark of 53.2 seconds set by Jack Peterson of Rice in 1938.

University of Texas speedsters, meanwhile, scored a triple as they won the four-mile, 440 and 880-yard relays.

Performances in the field events failed to equal existing marks. Friday Minnesota's Fortune Gordien broke the Drake seven-year-old discus record with a toss of 165 feet 5 inches.

THRILLS CROWD

Dillard, who aspires to proudly wear the shield of the United States in the 1948 Olympic games, thrilled a shirt-sleeved crowd of 15,000 spectators in Drake stadium by streaking to victory in the 120 yard high hurdles in 14.1 seconds.

The 24-year-old Dillard ran a perfect race in proving his supremacy as America's finest hurdler. He cleared the ten hurdles with matchless form in the face of a 10-mile an hour wind. He was pressed by Clyde Scott of Arkansas, until the last barrier when Bill Porter, Northwestern, came up to finish second. Dillard's margin was two yards.

Charley Peters, Indiana's western conference indoor sprint champion, handed Charley Parker of Texas, his first defeat of the year in winning the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds. Parker salvaged only third place, as Paul Bienz, Tulane, finished second, a stride back of Peters.

JUST MISSES MARK

The Texas miler, 120-pound Jerry Thompson, anchored the Longhorn's relay team to victory in 17 minutes, 30.3 seconds. This was only seven-tenths of a second slower than the record.

The Texans did alright too in the field events with Frank Guess winning the javelin throw with a toss of 202 feet 7 inches.

John Gough, Oklahoma, won the hop, step and jump with a leap of 46 feet, 6¼ inches, while Norman Wasser, Illinois, captured the shot put with a heave of 52 feet, 9¾ inches. The high jump resulted in a two way tie between Illinois' Dwight Eddleman and Verne McGrew, Rice Institute, who leaped 6 feet, 6 inches.

The pole vault also ended in two way tie, Harry Cooper, Minnesota, and Laurence Busby, Purdue, both cleared 13 feet, 9¾ feet.

Ohio State Bags Seventh Straight

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State bagged its seventh straight baseball game this season by walking over Northwestern yesterday, 17 to 3. The win kept the Buckeyes undefeated in Big Nine play.

Centerfielder Ray Gebhardt socked a home run with the bases jammed in the seventh inning for Ohio State.

Lindsay, Tucker Feature

URICHSVILLE — Scoring in 12 of 16 events, the well-balanced Mansfield Senior high school track and field team took a hard-earned victory in the 11th annual Urichsville high school invitational meet here yesterday.

Coach Harry Mehock's lads outdistanced some of the finest talent in the state to win their first major relays' championship in several years. The Tyger thinclads rolled up 44.5 points to nose out Canton McKinley which counted 41.5. Seventeen schools competed.

BREAKS RECORD

The yeoman work of Big Burt Lindsay and Little Tommy Tucker was instrumental in giving Senior high the victory. Lindsay cracked an all-time Tyger discus throw record with a heave of 140 feet, 11 inches and equaled the Senior high shot mark of 49 feet set in 1929 by Bob Schuster.

Lindsay won the platter toss but could do no better than fourth in the shot put. Jim Sinerson had held the previous discus record of 140-5. Jim put the mark on the books last year.

The slightly built Tucker was the top point-gatherer in the competition with 15¾ points. He won the broad jump with a fine effort of 21 feet, 11 inches. That's just seven inches behind the Tyger mark of Bill Distl, set in 1931.

BEATS CHAMPION

The Tyger ebony flash tied J. V. Clifford for first in a thrilling 220 and shaded the Canton McKinley star in the 100 which was won by Bob McVey of Newark. Clifford is the defending state champion in both sprints.

Tucker also anchored the 880-yard relay team which finished fourth.

Marty Bricker placed third in the high hurdles and was leading the low sticks until he hit a hurdle. A. C. Jenkins did take third in the lows. Bricker was unofficially timed in 14.9 in the highs. Ivan Wallington holds the Senior high record of 14.9.

MEDLEY TEAM WINS

Senior high had only four first places. The medley relay team of Johnny Bricker, Bob Troll, Kenny Cline and Paul Hammond came through.

Other Mansfield points were garnered by George Doyle, broad jump; Willie Fowler, high jump and the Tyger mile relay combine.

Scoring of other teams follows: Akron North, 36; Newark, 31.5; Cleveland West, 28; Cleveland Rhodes, 16.5; Marietta, 14.5; Louisville, 9, Canton Lehman, 8; Salem, 7.5; Tuscarawas, 6, Struthers, 5; Nues McKinley 4, and East Palestine, 4.

★

The Tygers pulled down a 30-inch trophy for first place and Tucker got one for being the best individual. The first two men in each event picked up medals.

Shelby Football Teams Battle To Scoreless Result

SHELBY— Shelby high school's spring football game here last night ended in a 0-0 tie before a crowd of 800 persons.

Although outweighed nine pounds to the man by a more experienced senior team, the 1948 varsity acquitted itself nobly. It was the first appearance of a Shelby team coached by Bill Wilkins and the lads showed a fine knowledge of fundamentals.

Each team threatened twice. Both reached the nine yard line once and the 15, once.

300 'Kids' Sign Up For Baseball

More than 300 Mansfield youngsters have already signed for participation in the Hot Stove league junior baseball program this summer.

With the spring fishing and camping season starting we have some helpful ideas which readers of this column should find useful at one time or another. These helpful hints were gleaned from various sources over a period of time and turned up during our annual housecleaning.

A fish line wringer that wipes the line while it is being wound on the reel, can be made by slipping a cork float over the handle section of the rod. The slit should be made with a sharp knife so that when the line runs through it, the cork removes moisture and dirt. The soft float also serves as a safe holder for the hook when the rod is being carried through heavy brush.

Did you ever need matches badly and find all your supply too damp to use? And when you tried to strike them the heads rubbed off. Waterproofing matches is a cinch if you dip the heads in some of your wife's clear nail polish. This method is much easier than using parafin or other materials and has the added advantage of drying in a few minutes. For carrying the matches on trips buy a cheap waterproof plastic container.

Many people prefer catfish to other kinds of fish and this writer has eaten carp caught in clear water and prepared in a way that made them really good. If you haven't a good homemade bait to catch catfish or carp, this recipe will work. Take one loaf of bread, sliced, and the older and harder the better. Next remove all the crusts and mix each slice separately with water, taking care to squeeze all the water from each slice, then putting all the slices into one ball. Then take about a teaspoon of butter and mix it into the ball. This lets off an oily chum slick when the bait is in the water and also keeps the bait slightly waterproof. Thus it will stay on the hook longer.

★

Here is a little idea that will prevent a lot of broken guides on your casting and fly rods. Instead of carrying your favorite rods haphazardly in the back of the car, why not make a cardboard case to protect them? All you need is a length of heavy paper tubing (used to roll rugs and textiles), slightly longer than the rods. After varnishing and painting the tube make a plug and cover for it. The four and one half inch case will hold four rods, a gaff and folding net.

Fish never seem so good as when they are cooked and eaten right out where you catch them. Anyone who has eaten fish fresh out of the water will know what we mean. Here are a couple of ways to prepare them. This is for campers with an early morning appetite. Remove heads and tails of your larger fish. Clean and wash. Rub well with salt and sprinkle with pepper. Wrap each fish in wax or clean brown paper. Then wrap again in thick folds of wet newspapers. Before you start your evening campfire, dig holes deep enough to bury fish with one or two inches of earth to cover them. Then build your fire over the fish. They will be baked in time for the first call for breakfast.

Another easy way for campers is to cook your fish on a flat rock placed in the middle of the embers of your campfire. Clean the rock and grease it by putting a strip or two of bacon beneath the fish. You may have to brush a few ashes off but fish will have marvelous flavor.

★

Just before you go on that fishing trip check and see if you have that fishing license in its proper place. Then you will have no need of having your wife bake a cake with you know what in it.

Shiloh High Tops Lucas Nine, 3 to 1

LUCAS—Shiloh high school defeated Lucas in a baseball game here Friday afternoon, 3 to 1, behind the three-hit pitching of Chuck Wallace, freshman right-hander. Barr, Lucas pitcher, gave up only two hits.

Shiloh scored two runs in the top half of the seventh and Lucas counted its only tally in the last half of the same inning.

Singleton Allows Only Five Bingles

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Elmer Singleton, making his first start of the year, held Cincinnati to five hits yesterday as the Pittsburgh Pirates thumped the Redlegs, 7-1, for their first win of the season over the Crosley field crew.

A crowd of 10,385 saw Max West, a former Red, connect for a sixth inning homer to break a 1-1 tie and turn the tide for the Pirates.

Pittsburgh pushed over another run in the sixth and then First Sacker Eddie Stevens iced the game with a three-run double in the ninth.

Singleton, who had a 2-2 record with the Pirates last year, walked five and struck out six.

The Reds, who had taken the Pirates' measure in two earlier games, scored their run in the opening round on two hits and a walk, but Singleton held them thereafter, giving up the fifth hit in the fifth inning.

HATTON SCORES

Grady Hatton crossed the plate for the Reds' only run. He came in on Ted Kluszewski's single to right. Johnny Wyrostek, who tripled, went out earlier in the inning when he attempted to go home on Hatton's grounder to Stevens at first.

In the fifth inning, the Reds threatened by loading the bases with one away. Hughes singled, Frank Baumholtz sacrificed and both Wyrostek and Hatton drew passes. The threat died as Hank Sauer smashed a liner directly to Shortstop Stan Rojek who doubled Wyrostek off second.

West's homer was the first non-Red homer hit in Crosley field this season.

Chicago Cubs Rap Cardinals, 6 to 2

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago Cubs, who had suffered two straight shutouts, came roaring out of their slump here yesterday to unleash a home run barrage that whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2, before a crowd of 28,862.

The Cubs collected nine hits off Al Brazle, Ken Burkhart and Al Papai. Four of them were homers by Andy Pafko, Bill Nicholson, Cliff Aberson and Hal Jeffcoat to account for all the Chicago runs. Pafko's came with two on in the first and the others were solo blasts.

It helped to make it a triumphant big league debut for Cliff Chambers, rookie southpaw. The farm club graduate scattered eight hits.

Violets Take Mile Relay

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— The 54th annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival packed all of its excitement into the final event yesterday when New York university captured the mile relay with Reggie Pearman outrunning Michigan's Herb Barten in a stirring anchor duel.

With 35,000 fans standing and yelling in the gathering gloom at Franklin Field, Michigan appeared well on its way to a third relay title to take home with the two individual championships the midwesterners had won.

As the two straightened out from the final curve, Pearman pulled even, nosed in front in the final strides, then beat the western conference ace to the tape by a yard.

NYU was clocked in 3:15.5, seven-tenths off the carnival record. Seton Hall's national indoor champions finished third.

Michigan's second individual winner, following Charley Fonville's record-breaking heave of 56 feet in the shot put yesterday, was Ed Ulvestad, whose 13 feet was good enough to win the pole vault.

Too Small For Grid, Mike Lalli Carries Madison Financial Ball

By CHARLEY STINE

While many of the Madison high school students are playing football Mike Lalli is filling gasoline tanks, but when it comes to building the new Madison grid stadium little Mike is leading the way.

Because of his slight build the 17-year-old junior did not go out for football. Besides, he could make good use of the extra money he earned while the rest of the boys were playing. So Mike passed up football and began working after school in a filling station over a year ago.

He still loved football and was one of the team's biggest boosters. But he had to miss some of the games. He was saving his money, however, and each week hurried to the bank with what he had saved.

★

THEN ALONG came the Madison boosters club with plans for constructing a new modern stadium for the proud little township school—if they could raise the money.

Notes were to be sold for $200 with the holder getting two free season tickets each year for the duration of the loan, as the only interest. He would also have the right to purchase those same seats every year thereafter.

Eleven of these notes have been sold so far and little Mike Lalli was one of the first to buy one. He saw his chance to carry the ball for his school and took it.

"IT WAS ONE morning a few days ago when Mike walked into my office and plopped down 20 new ten dollar bills, relates Madison Superintendent Olan Larue. "I was so surprised I didn't know what to say."

'I think it's a good way of saving my money," says Mike, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laudo Lalli of 306 Hickory lane.

The others who have helped the school buy the 1700 new stadium seats are: Darl L. Stoffer, Arthur C. Hunter (2), Curtis B. Glen, Mike Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Davies, Catalina Nita club, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Yingling, and Albert Yuncker.

Springfield 'Cats Repeat In Ohio Wesleyan Relays

DELAWARE—(AP)—Neither rain nor 71 other high school teams could make the Class A Springfield Wildcats or the Class B Salem Oak Harbor runners give up their championship titles in the 17th annual Ohio Wesleyan Relays yesterday.

Springfield, 1947 winner and also champion of last week's Mansfield Relays, swept the field events and added a fifth in the medley relay to pile up 31 points. Second place went to Cleveland East, which scored 21 points with only one first place, the 440 relay.

In class B Oak Harbor picked up victories in the broad jump, medley relay, mile relay and two-mile relay, a third place tie in the pole vault, and third in the 480-yard shuttle hurdle for 29½. Second place went to the Lakewood, whose 18 edged Columbus university school by a point.

15 Track, Field Events Scheduled In County Meet

A full card of fifteen events will be run off in the county track meet Saturday at Bellville, it has been announced.

Howard Hofacre, Lexington superintendent of schools who is general chairman of the meet, said yesterday that two regular events had been cancelled but substitutions would be made for them. A baseball distance throw and standing road jump will replace the 120 high hurdles and mile relay.

Other events to be run beginning at 1 p. m. are the 100 yard dash, 220, 220 low hurdle, 440, 880, and mile run, 440 and 880 relay, running broad jump high jump, pole vault, discus and shot. Since there is no permanent track on the Bellville field, one will be lined off around the edge of the football field.

All eight county schools—Bellville, Butler, Lexington, Lucas, Ontario, Shiloh, Plymouth, and Union—will participate. Entrants in individual events will be made at a meeting of officials Tuesday.

12 Golf Leagues Slated For Mansfield Operation

Upwards of a dozen golf leagues will be in operation on the three Mansfield courses this summer.

Two leagues have already begun play, five more are in the process of organization, and a number of others are being planned.

Already in action are the Moose league which opened last Monday and the Sons of Herman league which began play Thursday on the nine-hole Coolridge links.

Five other leagues will definitely begin play around May 1. Four of them are at Possum Run including the News-Journal "A" league, which will play on Tuesday evenings. Others are: Tappan Stove league on Mondays; Westinghouse loop on Wednesdays and Mansfield Tire league on Thursday evenings.

The Coolridge club league will also begin play about that time. It will play on Saturday according to Manager Fred Huntsman.

No definite plans have been made at Westbrook Country club although Tom Raklets, club pro, has said that a club league will be formed.

Several morning leagues will be started at Possum Run, according to Manager Irish McGee. All eighteen holes at Possum Run are now open for play, the "inside" nine having been opened Saturday.
